19 the trustor stating that the trustor understands that 20 (a) the document to be executed is a trust deed and not 21 a mortgage and (b) the power of sale provided for in the 22 trust deed provides substantially different rights and 23 obligations to the trustor than a mortgage in the event
24 of a default or breach of obligation. Failure to obtain

2 conferring of or exercising of such power of sale.

3 Sec. 10. That section 76-1012, Reissue

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86026
February 28, 1986

To: Senator D. Paul Hartnett

Subject: LB 949 Classification of Public Power Districts and Apportionment by Population or Number of Electors.

The proposed amendments to LB 949 permitting public power districts that serve 50 or less counties to establish election districts at the discretion of the board of directors, based on either population or numbers of electors are constitutionally impermissible. Article I Section 22 of the Nebraska Constitution does not apply to public corporations exercising only proprietary functions. Wittler v. Baumgartner, 180 Neb. 446, 144 N.W.2d 62 (1966). However, legislative classification, to be valid, must be based on a difference of situation or circumstance that reasonably necessitates diverse legislation between the classes. In Wittler the Nebraska Supreme Court invalidated a law establishing a grid system for all public power districts operating in more than 15 counties, because there was no basis for treating the electors of some counties differently than other counties similarly situated. Unless the Public Works Committee can point to a rational basis for drawing the dividing line at 50 counties the proposed classification is unconstitutionally arbitrary.

The delegation to the board of directors of the district to provide the subdivision from which directors are to be elected or appointed violates Article III Section 1 of the state constitution. The fixing of boundaries of a political subdivision for public purposes is a legislative function. The Legislature may authorize the organization of districts to other governmental bodies. Nickel v. School Board of Axtell, 157 Neb. 813, 61 N.W.2d 566 (1953). Yet, when the Legislature delegates such power it must provide reasonable guidelines and standards. Williams v. County of Buffalo, 181 Neb. 233, 147 N.W.2d 776 (1967). The question of how far the Legislature should go in providing the details are issues of policy in which the Legislature has wide discretion. But those guidelines “. . . must be adequate, sufficient and definite for the guidance of the agency in the exercise of the power conferred upon it and must be sufficient to enable those affected to know their rights and obligations.” State v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 444, 465, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979). LB 949 as amended grants legislative authority to the board of directors to be exercised upon a finding that “it is in the best interest of the district and its customers” to provide for subdivisions based on the number of electors rather than population. The Legislature has established no standards nor any basis for such a determination. The board is not given any factors which should or must be considered. Unbridled delegation of legislative power is contrary to state law.

Establishing districts on the basis of electors is as valid as districts based on population when there is a legitimate reason for such action. Likewise the frequency of redistricting is a matter of legislative prerogative that only needs to satisfy the rational basis test.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 311CA. Placed on General File.

(Signed) Lee Rupp, Chairperson

Judiciary

LEGISLATIVE BILL 923. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 923:

AM2324

- 1 1. Strike original sections 2 through 7.
2 2. Remove the underscoring from the remaining
3 section.

LEGISLATIVE BILL 956. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendment to LB 956:

AM2296

- 1 1. Strike the original sections and insert
2 the following new sections:
3 "Section 1. A sentencing court may order the 4 defendant to make restitution to any victim of any

5 offense as a condition of probation. Whenever the court
6 believes that restitution may be a proper sentence or 7 the victim of any offense or the prosecuting attorney
8 requests, the court shall order that the presentence
9 report include documentation regarding the nature and 10 amount of the actual damages sustained by the victim.

11 Sec. 2. To determine the amount of
12 restitution, the court may hold a hearing at the time of 13 sentencing. The amount of restitution shall be based on
14 the actual damages sustained by the victim and shall be 15 supported by evidence which shall become a part of the 16 court record. The court shall consider the defendant's
17 earning ability, employment status, financial resources,
18 and family or other legal obligations and shall balance
19 such considerations against the obligation to the
20 victim. The court may order that restitution be made
21 immediately, in specified installments, or within a
1 specified period of time, not to exceed five years after
2 the defendant's final release date from imprisonment.

3 Sec. 3. In determining restitution, if the
4 offense results in damage, destruction, or loss of
5 property, the court may require: (1) Return of the 6 property to the victim, if possible; (2) payment of the 7 reasonable value of repairing the property, including
8 property returned by the defendant; or (3) payment of 9 the reasonable replacement value of the property if
10 return or repair is impossible, impractical, or
11 inadequate. If the offense results in bodily injury,
12 the court may require payment of necessary medical care,
13 including, but not limited to, physical or psychological
14 treatment and therapy, and payment for income lost due
15 to such bodily injury. If the offense results in the 16 death of the victim, the court may require payment to be
17 made to the estate of the victim for the cost of any
18 medical care prior to death and for funeral and burial
19 expenses.

20 Sec. 4. The court shall not impose
21 restitution for a loss for which the victim has received
22 compensation, except that the court may order payment by
23 the defendant to any person who has compensated the 24 victim to the extent that such compensation has been
1 provided. Any amount paid to a victim pursuant to an
2 order of restitution shall be set off against any amount
3 later recovered as compensatory damages in a civil
4 action.

5 Sec. 5. The court may revoke probation if the 6 defendant fails to comply with the restitution order.
7 In determining whether to revoke probation, the court
8 shall consider the defendant's earning ability and 9 financial resources, the willfulness of the defendant's
10 failure to pay, and any special circumstances affecting 11 the defendant's ability to pay.

12 Sec. 6. A defendant, victim, or the personal
13 representative of the victim's estate may petition the 14 sentencing court to adjust or otherwise waive payment or 15 performance of any ordered restitution or any unpaid or
16 unperformed portion thereof. The court may schedule a
17 hearing and give the parties notice of the hearing,
18 date, place, and time and inform the parties that he or
19 she will have an opportunity to be heard. If the court
20 finds that the circumstances upon which it based the 21 imposition or amount and method of payment or other
22 restitution ordered no longer exist or that it otherwise
23 would be unjust to require payment or other restitution
24 as imposed, the court may adjust or waive payment of the
1 unpaid portion thereof or other restitution or modify
2 the time or method of making restitution.

3 Sec. 7. An order of restitution may be
4 enforced by a victim named in the order to receive the
5 restitution or the personal representative of the
6 victim's estate in the same manner as a judgment in a
7 civil action. If the victim is deceased and no claim is 8 filed by the personal representative of the estate or if
9 the victim cannot be found, the Attorney General may 10 enforce such order of restitution for the benefit of the 11 Victim's Compensation Fund.

12 Sec. 8. (1) Sections 1 to 10 of this act
13 shall not limit or impair the right of a victim to sue 14 and recover damages from the defendant in a civil 15 action.

16 (2) The findings in the sentencing hearing and
17 the fact that restitution was required or paid is not
18 admissible as evidence in a civil action and has no
19 legal effect on the merits of a civil action.

20 (3) Any restitution paid by the defendant to 21 the victim shall be set off against any judgment in
22 favor of the victim in a civil action arising out of the 23 facts or events which were the basis for the 24 restitution. The court trying the civil action shall
1 hold a separate hearing to determine the validity and

2 amount of any set off asserted by the defendant.

3 Sec. 9. If restitution is imposed on an
4 organization, it shall be the duty of any person
5 authorized to order the disbursement of assets of the 6 organization, and his or her superiors, to pay the
7 restitution from assets of the organization under his or
8 her control. Failure to do so renders a person subject
9 to an order to show cause why he or she should not be
10 held in contempt of court.

11 Sec. 10. (1) Whenever a victim is paid by the
12 Victim's Compensation Fund for loss arising out of a
13 criminal act, the fund is subrogated to the rights of 14 the victim to any restitution ordered by the court.

15 (2) The rights of the Victim's Compensation
16 Fund are subordinate to the claims of victims who have
17 suffered loss arising out of the offenses or any
18 transaction which is part of the same continuous scheme
19 of criminal activity.

20 Sec. 11. That section 29-2262, Reissue
21 Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read
22 as follows:

23 29-2262. (1) When a court sentences an
24 offender to probation, it shall attach such reasonable
1 conditions as it deems necessary or likely to insure
2 that the offender will lead a law-abiding life.

3 (2) The court, as a condition of its sentence,
4 may require the offender:

24 (i) To have in his or her possession no

2 permission;

3 ~~(j) To make restitution of the fruits of his~~

11 a probation officer and to permit the officer to visit
12 his or her home;

13 ~~(m)~~ (l) To pay a fine in one or more payments,
14 as ordered;

15 ~~(n)~~ (m) To work, in lieu of or in addition to 16 any fine, on public streets, parks, or other public
17 property for a period not exceeding twenty working days.
18 Such work shall be under the supervision of the 19 probation officer or a law enforcement officer in the 20 jurisdiction in which the work is performed;

21 ~~(o)~~ (n) To pay for blood, urine, or breath
22 alcohol tests, psychological evaluations, and 23 rehabilitative services required in the identification,
24 evaluation, and treatment of offenders if such offender
1 has the financial ability to pay for such services; or

2 ~~(p)~~ (o) To satisfy any other conditions
3 reasonably related to the rehabilitation of the 4 offender.

5 (3) In all cases in which the offender is

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86027
March 3, 1986

To: Senator Rod Johnson

Subject: Constitutionality of LB 953 -- The Imposition of the State's Police Power

This is in response to your opinion request of February 10, 1986, in which you ask us about the constitutionality of LB 953. LB 953 would eventually require all retailers of gasoline in this state to make gasohol available for sale. Failure to comply with this section would constitute a Class V misdemeanor.

The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States provides in part that "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction equal protection of the laws."

Article I, Section 1 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska provides "All persons are by nature free and independent, and have certain inherent and inalienable rights; among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. To secure these rights, and the protection of property, governments are instituted among people, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Article I, Section 3 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska further provides "No person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law."

Since LB 953 imposes a requirement on retailers of gasoline as to the conduct of their business, and in particular without regard to the consequences of this requirement in terms of potential losses, and because it makes failure to comply with this provision a criminal offense, it infringes upon those individuals' liberty and property interests guaranteed by the Constitution. "Liberty within the constitutional meaning includes absence of arbitrary and unreasonable restraint upon a person in the conduct of his business and handling of his property." McGraw Electric Company v. Lewis & Smith Drug Co., Inc., 159 Neb. 703 at 717, 68 N.W.2d 608 (1955). Such an infringement could be considered as ... an unwarranted interference with the individual liberty which is guaranteed to every citizen, both by our state constitution and also by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States. * * * This inalienable right is trespassed upon and impaired whenever the legislature prohibits a man from carrying on his business in his own way, provided always, of course, that the business and the mode of carrying it on are not injurious to the public, and provided also that it is not a business which is affected with the public use or interest.

State v. Sperry & Hutchinson Company, 94 Neb. 785 at 790, 144 N.W. 795 (1913).

These individual rights are not absolute, however, and may be curtailed by a proper exercise of the state's police power.

A police regulation, obviously intended as such, and not operating unreasonably beyond occasions of its enactment, is not invalid simply because it may affect incidentally the exercise of some right guaranteed by the Constitution. In all matters within the police power some compromise between the exigencies of public health and safety and the free exercise of their rights by individuals must be reached. The test in such cases is whether the regulation in question is a bona fide exercise of the police power or an arbitrary and unreasonable interference with the rights of individuals under the guise of police regulation.

Burns Baking Co. v. McKelvie, 108 Neb. 674 at 678, 199 N.W. 383, 26 LR 24, error dismissed 261 U.S. 625, reversed, Jay Burns Baking Company v. Bryan, 264 U.S. 504 (1922).

In addition our courts have stated that "The question of whether or not legislation is in the public interest is ordinarily one for legislative determination, however it may not under the guise of regulation in the public interest impose conditions which are on their face unreasonable, arbitrary, discriminatory, or confiscatory." McGraw Electric Co., supra, at 720.

The test of whether an exercise of the police power is appropriate is essentially one of a reasonable relationship to the public welfare.

Measures adopted by the Legislature to protect the public health and secure the public safety and welfare must have some reasonable relation to those proposed ends. A citizen has a constitutional right to own, acquire, and sell property; and if it is apparent that a statute under the guise of a police regulation does not tend to preserve the public health, safety, or welfare but tends to stifle legitimate business by creating a monopoly or trade barrier, it is unconstitutional as an invasion of the property rights of the individual. (Omission of citations).

The exercise of the police power must be directed toward and have a rational relation to the basic interest of society rather than the mere advantage of particular individuals. (Omission of citations). A police regulation cannot arbitrarily invade private property or personal rights. There must be some clear and real connection between the assumed purpose of the law and its actual provisions. United States Brewers' Assn., Inc. v. State, 192 Neb. 328 at 333, 220 N.W.2d 544, (1974).

The issue raised here is whether there is a rational and reasonable relationship between the exercise of this police power and the public welfare. This purpose is obviously not spelled out in the statute itself, but we presume it to be one concerned with the general economic welfare of the state premised on the theory that this requirement will provide additional markets for growers of agricultural products and producers of gasohol which will, in turn, generally benefit the state's economy. The first question that must be asked then is whether this statute has a rational relationship to the basic interest of society or merely would act to the advantage of those individuals who would sell the agricultural products to be turned into gasohol, and to the advantage of the producers of that gasohol. We are not convinced that a court would necessarily find the benefits of this provision to run to society at large as opposed to the special interests of a particular group of individuals. Likewise, we are not convinced that a court would necessarily conclude that a requirement that all gasoline retailers make gasohol available for sale regardless of any economic detriment to them was reasonably related to the preservation of the general public welfare of the State of Nebraska. The logic is simply too tenuous and the facts too speculative to support such a proposition in view of the substantial invasion of individual rights imposed by this purported exercise of the police power. "There must be a clear, real, and substantial connection between the assumed purpose of the enactment and its actual provisions." Eckstein v. City of Lincoln, 202 Neb. 741 at 744, 277 N.W.2d 91 (1979). Consequently, given the tendency of our courts to strike down attempted exercises of the police power where there is not a clear and substantial relationship to the promotion of the public welfare, we do not believe that this provision could be successfully defended against a determined constitutional challenge.

You further ask, that if in our judgment LB 953 imposes an unconstitutional burden on retailers, whether this could be overcome by adding a statement of public purpose and economic policy to the bill. As we have indicated above, a statute under the guise of a police regulation, which does not in fact preserve or promote the public's health, safety, and welfare is nevertheless an unconstitutional invasion of personal and property rights of the individual. Thus, mere statements as to a public or economic purpose would not sustain the statute if, in fact, there cannot be demonstrated a real and clear connection between the purported purpose of the law and its actual operation. As we have implied above, we doubt whether such a statement would be sufficient in this case.

Finally, we would point out one other constitutional defect with this piece of legislation. Section 1 of the bill provides that "A retailer who makes more than one type of gasoline available for sale shall make gasohol for sale by January 1, 1990. A retailer who makes one type of gasoline available for sale shall make gasohol available by January 1, 1992."

The question is whether this is a reasonable classification or a violation of the equal protection requirement. In this regard our court has stated that

A legislative classification, in order to be valid, must be based upon some reason of public policy, some substantial difference of situation or circumstances, that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the objects to be classified. Classifications for the purpose of legislation must be real and not illusive; they cannot be based on distinctions without a substantial difference. (Omission of citations).

Classification is proper if the special class has some reasonable distinction from other subjects of a like general character, which distinction bears some reasonable relation to the legitimate objectives and purposes of the legislation. The question is always whether the things or persons classified by the act form by themselves a proper and legitimate class with reference to the purpose of the act.

State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598 at 609, 300 N.W.2d 181 (1980).

The primary burden in implementing this legislation would appear to be essentially the same for all current retailers of gasoline, regardless of whether or not they presently offer more than one type of gasoline for sale. That would, in essence, require them to obtain facilities to provide yet an additional product, which burden would reasonably appear to be the same for all current retailers of gasoline regardless of the number of product lines they now carry. Consequently, we see no valid distinction, and thus it would appear that this bill in addition creates an invalid classification under the Constitution.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. SPIRE

12 during the taxable year in which such credit was first
13 allowable may be carried over for five immediately
14 succeeding taxable years. A credit carried over shall

16 Sec. 4. (1) A taxpayer shall be deemed to

17 the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967, any business entities
18 that are not corporations but which would be a part of 19 the unitary business if they were corporations, any 20 business entities if at least fifty per cent of such 21 entities are owned by the same persons or related
22 taxpayers and family members as defined in the ownership
23 attribution rules of the Internal Revenue Code.

24 Sec. 8. The credit allowed under the
1 Employment Expansion and Investment Incentive Act shall
2 not be transferable, except in the following situations:

3 (1) Any credit allowable to a partnership, a
4 subchapter S corporation, or an estate or trust shall be

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86029

March 5, 1986

To: Senator D. Paul Hartnett

Subject: Constitutionality of LB 1233 - Amendments to Various Crimes and Offenses

You have requested our opinion on three questions relating to the constitutionality of LB 1233. Generally, LB 1233 would amend the statutory provisions pertaining to certain crimes and offenses, including changing provisions relating to the unauthorized use of a propelled vehicle (Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-516 (Reissue 1979)); criminal mischief (Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-519 (Supp. 1984)); offenses against another committed by a confined person (Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-933 (Supp. 1984)); and the definition of gambling (Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-1101 (Supp. 1984)).

Initially, you ask whether LB 1233 violates the constitutional requirement that "{n}o bill shall contain more than one subject." Neb. Const., Art. III, Section 14.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has adopted a liberal construction with respect to this constitutional requirement. In Midwest Popcorn Co. v. Johnson, 152 Neb. 867, 872, 43 N.W.2d 174, 178 (1950), the court stated:

An act, no matter how comprehensive, is valid as containing but one subject if a single main purpose is within its purview and nothing is included within it except that which is naturally connected with and incidental to that main purpose.

LB 1233 relates to the broad subject of "crimes and offenses." The amendments proposed under the bill are all clearly related to and naturally connected with criminal offenses, including amending the definition of "gambling" and other terms contained in §28-1101. Based on the liberal interpretation of Article III, Section 14 adopted by the Nebraska Supreme Court, we conclude that LB 1233 does not contain more than one subject, and, therefore, does not violate this constitutional provision.

Your second question concerns whether LB 1233 violates the constitutional requirement that the subject of the bill "shall be clearly expressed in the title." Neb. Const., Art. III, Section 14.

It is well-established that a court will not hold legislation in violation of the title provision of Article III, Section 14 if the title calls attention to the subject matter of the bill, and the portion of the bill challenged is germane to the purpose announced in the title.

Blackledge v. Richards, 194 Neb. 188, 192, 231 N.W.2d 319, 323 (1975).

The title of LB 1233 expresses that the bill relates to "crimes and offenses," and, furthermore, that the bill proposes to amend §28-1101, and to "redefine terms." Section 4 of LB 1233, which provides for the amendment of §28-1101 by changing certain terms utilized in the definition of "gambling," is, in our opinion, within the subject matter expressed in the title, and is germane to the purpose announced in the title. Accordingly, we do not believe that LB 1233 violates the title provision of Article III, Section 14.

Your final question concerns whether the definition of "lottery" in Section 4 of LB 1233 is subject to constitutional attack as violative of due process on grounds of vagueness and overbreadth. Specifically, you ask whether the absence of specific definitions for the terms "roulette," "keno," "craps," "blackjack," "poker," and "any other gambling scheme commonly referred to as casino gambling," renders this portion of the bill unconstitutionally vague.

It is fundamental that, in order to satisfy the constitutional requirement of due process of law, a crime must be defined with sufficient definiteness to inform persons subject to its application what conduct will render them liable to its penalties. State v. Metzger, 211 Neb. 593, 595, 319 N.W.2d 459, 461 (1982). In State v. Shiffbauer, 197 Neb. 805, 808, 251 N.W.2d 359, 362 (1977), the court, discussing this requirement of due process, stated:

... {T}his prohibition against excessive vagueness does not invalidate every statute which a reviewing court believes could have been drafted with greater precision. All the Due Process Clause requires is that the law give sufficient warning that men may conform their conduct so as to avoid that which is forbidden.

Applying these principles to the questioned portion of LB 1233, we do not believe the lack of specific definitions of the terms "roulette," "keno," "craps," "blackjack," "poker," and "any other gambling scheme commonly referred to as casino gambling," renders this aspect of the bill unconstitutionally vague. In our view, the use of these terms alone provides sufficient notice and information as to what conduct is proscribed by the act.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 86030
March 7, 1986

To: Senator Jerry Chizek

Subject: Constitutionality of LB 772 -- Restriction of Paramilitary Training Activities

This is in response to your request and that of several other senators for an opinion on the constitutionality of LB 772. This legislation would prohibit the teaching of paramilitary activities and the assembly of individuals to train in such activities where such training and techniques will be used in or in furtherance of a civil disorder. A civil disorder is defined in the act as "any public disturbance involving acts of violence which causes an immediate danger of or results in damage or injury to persons or property." Your questions are generally whether or not this legislation infringes upon the rights of free speech and lawful assembly guaranteed by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The key provisions of LB 772, in addition to the definition of civil disorder, are found in Section 2 wherein it provides that

It shall be unlawful within the boundaries of this state: (1) For any person to teach or demonstrate to any other person the use, application, or making of any firearm, explosive or incendiary device, or any technique capable of causing injury or death to persons when such person knows or has reason to know or intends that such information or ability will be unlawfully employed for use in or in furtherance of a civil disorder; or (2) For any person to assemble with one or more persons for the purpose of training with, practicing with, or being instructed in the use of any firearm, explosive or incendiary device, or technique capable of causing injury or death to persons when such persons intend to unlawfully employ such training, practice, instruction, or techniques for use in or in furtherance of a civil disorder.

It should be noted that the definitions of LB 772 and Section 2(1) quoted above are virtually identical to provisions of the federal Civil Obedience Act of 1968, 18 U.S.C.A. §§231 and 232. These provisions have been challenged upon similar grounds in federal court and have been upheld by those courts. In the case of United States v. Featherston, 461 F.2d 1119 (5th Cir. 1972), cert. denied 409 U.S. 991 (1972), the court first dismissed an argument that the statute was void for vagueness in which it was contended that the "knowing or having reason to know" language used in this provision created criminal liability in terms so broad and vague that men of common intelligence must guess at its meaning and application. The court noted that this same argument was rejected by the court in National Mobilization Committee To End The War In Vietnam v. Foran, 411 F.2d 934 (7th Cir. 1969).

There the court construed the language of the statute to require an intent that the use, application, and making of incendiary devices be employed in the furtherance of a civil disorder. The court concluded that "The requirement of intent of course 'narrows the scope of the enactment by exempting innocent or inadvertent contact from its proscription.'" 411 F.2d at 937. Appellants urge us to reject this interpretation of § 231(a) (1). However, we do not perceive that such a result is required by the Constitution nor permitted by Supreme Court precedent.

We are thus led to the conclusion that § 231(a) (1) is not unconstitutional on its face. The language is substantially the same as that sanctioned by the Supreme Court in Gorin (Gorin v. United States, 312 U.S. 19) and we hold that it is sufficiently definite to appraise men of common intelligence of its meaning and application.

In sum, the statute does not cover mere inadvertent conduct. It requires those prosecuted to have acted with intent or knowledge that the information disseminated would be used in the furtherance of a civil disorder.

Featherston, supra, at 1121-22.

In regard to the First Amendment challenge to this statute the court noted as follows:

The First Amendment argument is two-fold. First, the contention is that since the statutory language does not require knowledge or intent, it permits prosecution for the dissemination of ideas without a showing of clear and present danger. In view of our decision that the statute as construed here and in the district court does require a showing of knowledge or intent, this contention is rejected.

Second, it is urged, despite our holding in regard to the language of § 231(a) (1), that the statute was unconstitutionally applied because the government failed to prove the happening or pendency of a particular civil disorder and thus failed to show a clear and present danger justifying an interference with activity protected by the First Amendment. We find this argument unpersuasive.

The words "clear and present danger" do not require that the government await the fruition of planned illegal conduct of such nature as is here involved. As stated in Dennis v. United States, 1950, 341 U.S. 494, 71 S.Ct. 857, 95 L.Ed. 1137:

{T}he words cannot mean that before the Government may act, it must wait until the putsch is about to be executed, the plans have been laid and the signal is awaited. If Government is aware that a group aiming at its overthrow is attempting to indoctrinate its members and to commit them to a course whereby they will strike when the leaders feel the circumstances permit, action by the government is required. 341 U.S. at 509, 71 S.Ct. at 867.

Id. at 1122.

In the Featherston case the evidence demonstrated that a group led by the defendant had engaged in the preparation for "the coming revolution." The group was regularly trained in explosives and incendiary devices and in striking transportation and communication facilities and law enforcement operations. In that factual setting the court determined that there was "a sufficient showing of clear and present danger to justify governmental intervention and the prosecution of appellants for teaching the use and manufacture of explosives and incendiary devices, as provided in §231(a) (1)." Id. at 1122-23.

As indicated above, the court in National Mobilization Committee To End The War In Vietnam v. Foran, supra, rejected a void for vagueness attack on this provision. In so doing the court noted as follows:

Their brief does assert that the phrase "technique capable of causing injury or death to persons" in Section 231(a) (1) includes techniques of self-defense or sporting activities and then argues that "the requirement that an instructor or teacher know whether his pupils will use their skills unlawfully or in a 'civil disorder which may in any way' interfere with interstate commerce is certainly too broad and vague." But this ignores the "knowing, or having reason to know or intending" language of the statute.

Id. at 937. The court, of course, went on to state that the requirement of intent narrowed the scope of the enactment sufficiently to eliminate any substantial question as to this provision. In any event, it is clear that the court gave little credence to the contention that innocent activities would be included within the scope of the prohibition.

It should also be noted that in the case of United States v. Mechanic, 454 F.2d 849 (8th Cir. 1971), the court there rejected an argument that the statute was vague and overly broad because the term "civil disorder" was inadequately defined.

Thus, in view of this court precedent upholding substantially identical language as that contained in §2(1) of LB 772, and the definition of civil disorder as found in LB 772, we believe that these provisions of the bill are sufficient to withstand any constitutional attack arising under the First Amendment or in the form of an argument as to vagueness and over breadth.

The language contained in Section 2(2) of LB 772 prohibiting the assembly of individuals for the purpose of training in paramilitary activities, has not been challenged to our knowledge, even though the similar statutory language has been enacted by at least eleven other states. Obviously, the rationale of the courts in upholding language identical to that contained in Section 2(1), would apply equally as well to the prohibitions contained in Section 2(2).

In addition, this provision appears to regulate only the conduct of individuals, training with firearms, etc., rather than speech itself. In the case of Vietnamese Fishermen's Ass'n. v. Knights of Klu Klux Klan, 543 F.Supp. 198, (S.D. Texas) (1982), the court upheld an injunction against the defendants prohibiting them from engaging in private or paramilitary activities including, "carrying on military or paramilitary training, including all forms of combat and combat related training." In so doing the court stated as follows:

The Court's research has disclosed no authority for the proposition that military operations, of the type in issue here, are protected by the First Amendment rights of free speech and freedom of association. As a preliminary matter, it is not clear that defendants' military activities involve "speech" at all, as distinguished from "conduct." While the line between these two is not always clear, the Supreme Court has explicitly endorsed the distinction. In United States v. O'Brien, 391 U.S. 367, 376, 88 S.Ct. 1673, 1678, 20 L.Ed.2d 672 (1968), for example, the Supreme Court declared that "{w}e cannot accept the view that an apparently limitless variety of conduct can be labeled 'speech' whenever the person engaging in the conduct intends thereby to express an idea." Defendants' conduct of military operations involves such grave interferences with the public peace and such minimal elements of communication, that, the Court views these activities as impermissible "conduct" not "speech."

Id. at 208.

The court went on to note that "Even if defendants' military operations were characterized as 'speech' defendants still would not be able to avail themselves of First Amendment protection." Id. at 208. The court analogized the defendants' conduct in this case to provocations or "fighting words" which the Supreme Court has long recognized to constitute a category of speech which simply does not fall within the protection of the First Amendment. "Similarly, the threat of violence which defendants communicated through their military activities is precisely such an irrefutable and dangerous 'communication' that it resembles the use of 'fighting words,' and therefore is not protected by the First Amendment." Id. at 208.

The court also found that even if the defendants' conduct were an exercise of free speech this conduct could be properly regulated under standards established by the United States Supreme Court, and in particular applied this analysis to training in such activities:

Weighty governmental interest also counsel against acceptance of any argument that the First Amendment protects military operations. As a New York Appellate Court has observed:

There can be no justification for the organization of such an armed force. Its existence would be incompatible with the fundamental concept of our form of government. The inherent potential danger of any organized private militia, even if never used or even if ultimately placed at the disposal of the government, is obvious. Its existence would be sufficient, without more, to prevent a democratic form of government, such as ours, from functioning freely, without coercion, and in accordance with the constitutional mandates.

Application of Cassidy, 268 App.Div. 282, 51 N.Y.S.2d 202, 205 (1944), aff'd, 296 N.Y. 926, 73 N.E.2d 41, (1947). This governmental interest is not intended to, nor does it, suppress free expression. Finally, any restriction which an injunction of military activities would place on defendants' free expression is minimal; defendants remain free to express their views by means other than the threat of military force.

Defendants' military training operations are similarly outside the scope of First Amendment freedom of speech and association. Professor Laurence Tribe defines an abridgement of the First Amendment freedom of association as "any insufficiently justified governmental rule, practice or policy that interferes with or discourages a group's pursuit of ends having special first amendment significance--such as literary expression, or political change, or religious worship." Tribe, supra, § 12-23, at 703. An injunction against defendants' military training operations in no way hinders defendants from meeting together as a group. Rather, it simply limits their ability to engage in a certain pattern of noncommunicative conduct which threatens to incite a breach of the peace. The First Amendment is no defense to a charge of conspiracy even if the act was committed for political or ideological reasons. So too, defendants' particular political motivations do not entitle them to transgress the law under the guise of the First Amendment.

Id. at 209-210.

Thus, it would appear that courts have not been hesitant to conclude that training in military or paramilitary activities is not protected under the First Amendment. Consequently, we are of the opinion that LB 772 is constitutional, and in particular is not in contravention of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 86031

March 10, 1986

To: Senator Tom Vickers

Subject: Salary Increases for Constitutional Officers

You have requested an opinion from our office on the constitutionality of LB 43, as amended, which now includes a tiered increase in salaries for constitutional officers. In particular, you have asked whether such a provision would be in violation of Article III, Section 19 of the Nebraska Constitution which provides in part that: "{N} or shall the compensation of any public officer, including any officer whose compensation is fixed by the Legislature, be increased or diminished during his term of office."

LB 43, as amended, provides for increases in salaries for constitutional officers on a gradual basis, with increases in 1988, 1989, and 1990. Nebraska case law has consistently interpreted Article III, Section 19 to prohibit any increases or decreases in compensation within a particular term of office. State ex rel. Laughlin v. Johnson, 156 Neb. 671, 57 N.W.2d 531 (1953). The purpose of Article III, Section 19 is to provide a system of checks and balances among the three branches of government.

Our system of government distributes the powers between three coordinate departments, the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. Each of these three independent departments derives its power directly from the people, and is responsible to them. State ex rel. Randall v. Hall, 125 Neb. 236, 249 N.W. 756 (1933).

It is clear that the Legislature may increase or decrease salaries of public officers, and that it is free to do so at any session, provided that it acts within constitutional limitations.

Among the positive limitations in our Constitution is the one that any increase or decrease of a constitutional officer's salary cannot take effect during that term of office. It is the purpose of this provision of our Constitution that such officers, upon assuming public duties, will receive as compensation for such services the amounts fixed at the time the duties are commenced, and that they will clearly understand that such compensation cannot be increased during their term of office, nor may it be decreased without conflicting with the clear intent and meaning of the constitutional provision which we are considering.

Id. at 243-244. In a later case, the Nebraska Supreme Court again addressed the purpose for this constitutional provision. "It was designed to protect the individual officer against legislative oppression and, further, to curb the activities of public officers in lobbying to induce the Legislature to increase salaries." Ramsey v. County of Gage, 153 Neb. 24, 43 N.W.2d 593 (1950).

It is clear that LB 43 will increase the salaries of constitutional officers during a particular term. However, it is our opinion that this increase does not fall within the constitutional prohibition of Article III, Section 19. What is critical is that the compensation of a public officer be known and defined at the beginning of the term. There can be no subsequent alteration of that amount during his or her term of office. LB 43 simply provides for a graduated increase in salary during a particular term. An officer assuming that position may only receive the salaries as adopted at the time of taking office. The fact that the Legislature has seen fit to adopt a graduated scale of salaries does not offend the Constitution. The Legislature could not, however, make any changes that would increase or decrease these amounts during an individual's term of office.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

EASE

The Legislature was at ease from 9:18 a.m. until 9:22 a.m.

MOTION - Committee on Credentials

Mrs. Marsh moved that the report from the Committee on Credentials be approved.

On March 5, 1986, Governor Kerrey appointed James D. McFarland to the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature, District #28, replacing Chris Beutler who had resigned.

Pursuant to that appointment, Mr. Paul Rosberg on March 7 objected to and contested the appointment by Governor Kerrey of Mr. McFarland as a state senator. Mr. McFarland took the oath of office and was sworn in on March 7. Pursuant to the objections as filed by Mr. Rosberg with the Secretary of State's Office, the Credentials Committee has met and made the following findings.

1. That nowhere in the Nebraska statutes or Constitution of the State of Nebraska can there be found any prohibition of an attorney being appointed to public office.
2. Furthermore, it is found that Mr. McFarland meets all the constitutional and statutory requirements imposed on any individual who is to serve as a member of the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature.

IT IS THEREFORE the committee's recommendation that Mr. McFarland be certified and seated as a member for the balance of this legislative term of the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature.

The motion prevailed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86032
March 11, 1986

To: Senator Ernest Chambers

Subject: LB 131 Section 1 (1)

You have asked whether the definition of the practice of optometry in LB 131, Section 1 (1) means that any person who makes a referral for consultation or treatment in connection with any abnormal condition of the human eye or lid is engaging in the practice of optometry and, if so, whether such a definition is overbroad. We have concluded that the answer to both questions is, no, as discussed below.

A citizen clearly has the right to engage in any occupation not detrimental to the public health, safety, and welfare. Measures adopted by the Legislature to protect the public health and secure the public safety and welfare must have some reasonable relation to those proposed ends.

Lincoln Dairy Co. v. Finigan, 170 Neb. 777, 785, 104 N.W.2d 227 (1960). Thus, the Legislature under the exercise of its police power can keep unlicensed persons from acts which it has determined can be safely done only by persons having the training and experience which qualify them for licensure, as evidenced by such licensure. However,

{t}he construction of statutes and the determination of the reasonableness is the ultimate province, responsibility, and duty of the courts and must be exercised by them if state and federal constitutional guarantees of liberty and property rights are not to be made subservient to pressure groups which seek and frequently secure the enactment of statutes advantageous to a particular industry and detrimental to another under the guise of police power regulations.

Id. at 787, 788.

A definition of the practice of a profession is an exercise of the police power of the Legislature. It draws the line between what the licensed person can do and what others cannot do unless they are exempted from such licensure.

LB 131 Section 1 proposes that the Legislature define the practice of optometry by three categories of acts. Without the use of surgery, any one of them alone or in combination with one or both of the others would be the practice of optometry. Thus they are acts which a licensed optometrist or those exempted from licensing may do. Anyone else may not. They include:

(1) The examination of the human eye to diagnose, treat, or refer for consultation or treatment any abnormal condition of the human eye or lid.

The basic act in that definition is the examination of the human eye for the purpose of diagnosing any abnormal condition of the human eye or lid. Treatment or referral for consultation and treatment are the alternative ways in which the examiner may dispose of the case. Thus a referral without the preliminary examination for the purpose of diagnosis would not be the practice of optometry.

Two rules of statutory construction support this conclusion. One is the rule that where a statute enumerates the things upon which it is to operate or forbids certain things, it is to be construed as excluding from its effect all those not expressly mentioned unless the Legislature has plainly indicated a contrary purpose or intention. See, Ledwith v. Bankers Life Insurance Co., 156 Neb. 107, 54 N.W.2d 409 (1952). The things upon which the definition of the practice of optometry is to operate are subsections (1) to (3), not the individual acts in any of them when taken out of context unless covered by another subsection as both diagnosing and treating abnormal conditions of the eye are.

In construing an act of the Legislature, all reasonable doubt must be resolved in favor of constitutionality. See, Mann v. Wayne County Board of Equalization, 186 Neb. 752, 186 N.W.2d 729 (1971). As pointed out above, measures adopted by the Legislature to protect the public health and secure the public safety and welfare must have some reasonable relation to those proposed ends. If subsection (1) kept the general public from directing another to a source for help or information, it would not meet that test.

In conclusion, to "refer for consultation or treatment any abnormal condition of the human eye or lid" as used in LB 131 Section 1 (1) is the practice of optometry only when it is done by a person holding himself or herself out as qualified to examine the human eye to diagnose such a condition and treat it himself or herself as an alternative to such a referral. Thus it is not overbroad in the sense that it would make the definition an unconstitutional exercise of the police power by the Legislature.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

March 6, 1986

To: Senator Emil E. Beyer, Jr.

In your letter of March 3, 1986, you ask what is the meaning of the word "bonds" in Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-4,154 (Supp. 1985).

It has been the policy of this office for many years that we will not give an opinion to an individual senator on the interpretation of a legislative bill which has become operative law. See, for example, Volume 1 of the 1973 Nebraska Legislative Journal at page 37. There are several reasons for this policy within the concept of the separation of powers as set forth in section 1 of Article II of the Constitution of Nebraska. See, Opinion of the Attorney General No. 157, December 24, 1985, a copy of which is attached hereto.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-4,154 (Supp. 1985) is an operative law. Consequently, we can not give you an interpretation thereof. We would, of course, be willing to work with you and the bill drafter in developing clarifying legislation in connection with your question, should you deem the same necessary or advisable.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

Assistant Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86033

March 7, 1986

To: Senator Rod Johnson

Subject: LB 999. Homestead exemption, partial exemption of real estate subject to foreclosure, receivers.

This is in response to your opinion request concerning the retrospective application of LB 999, pertaining to real estate foreclosures. LB 999 amends several Nebraska statutes and provides a new mechanism for partial redemption. Additionally, it increases the maximum period for a stay of execution and provides that a farmer-debtor be appointed receiver in the event of foreclosure. One of your main concerns is whether not these provisions will, or can be, applied to current mortgages and/or deeds of trust.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska has consistently held for a number of years that a legislative act will operate only prospectively and not retrospectively unless the legislative intent and purpose that it should act retrospectively is clearly disclosed. Moore v. Peterson, 218 Neb. 615, 358 N.W.2d 193 (1984); Wheelock v. Heath, 201 Neb. 835, 272 N.W.2d 768 (1978); Travelers Insurance Company v. Ohler, 119 Neb. 121, 227 N.W. 449 (1929). We find no wording in LB 999 which would indicate a clear and specific intention of the Legislature that it operate retrospectively. However, if that intent were disclosed, the application of the foregoing provisions would be an unconstitutional impairment of the obligations of contract.

It is well established that the laws in force at the time a contract is entered into form a part of it and enter into its obligation and, accordingly, the legislative act will not be permitted to operate retrospectively where it will have the effect of invalidating or impairing the obligation of contracts or interfering with vested rights. Dell v. City of Lincoln, 170 Neb. 176, 102 N.W.2d 62 (1960); Article I, Section 16, Constitution of Nebraska. In Norris v. Tower, 102 Neb. 434, 167 N.W. 728 (1918), the Supreme Court acknowledged that "generally speaking, the laws in force when a contract is entered into form a part of it and enter into its obligation. But there is a consensus of opinion that the laws giving a remedy for its breach may be modified or changed without impairing its obligation, provided an adequate remedy is left." Id. The Court further indicated that it is within the authority of the Legislature to change the form of a remedy, provided that it does not affect injuriously the rights of either party to the contract.

This distinction between contractual rights and a remedy for a breach thereof, was subsequently treated in Davis v. Brittell, 103 Neb. 703, 286 N.W. 284 (1919). The Court reiterated the proposition that the Legislature may not withdraw all remedies, but that modes of procedure in the courts of the state are within its control so that a particular remedy existing at the time of the making of a contract, may be abrogated altogether without impairing the obligation of the contract "if another and equally adequate remedy for the enforcement of that obligation remains or is substituted for the one taken away." However, the Court recognized that there is conflict concerning this proposition and stated that:

The difficulties in the way of stating a rule render it imperative that every case be determined on its own particular circumstances; and the question whether a change of remedy impairs a substantial right in the last analysis is ordinarily one as to reasonableness.

Id.

One of the specific features of LB 999 is that it increases the maximum period for a stay of execution from nine to twelve months. Neb.Rev.Stat. §25-1506. This precise issue has been treated by the United States Supreme Court. Bradley v. Lightcap, 195 U.S. 1 (1904); Barnitz v. Beverly, 163 U.S. 118 (1896). The Supreme Court specifically held that a "state statute which authorized redemption of property sold in foreclosure of a mortgage, where no such right previously existed, or extended the period of redemption beyond the time previously allowed, could not apply to a sale under a mortgage executed before its passage . . ." See, also, State ex rel. Cleveringa v. Klein, 249 N.W. 118 (N.D. 1933).

In an earlier case, the North Dakota Supreme Court noted that: {T}he Legislature may not, under the guise of a statute relating to the remedy, change the substantial rights of the parties. . . . (cites omitted). Under the constitutional inhibition against legislation impairing the obligation of contracts, it is immaterial whether the obligation of a contract is impaired by acting on the remedy or directly upon the contract. Impairment in either case is prohibited. Citing, Story, Constitution (5th Edition), Section 1385, the court continued as follows:

It is perfectly clear that any law which enlarges, abridges, or in any manner changes the intention of the parties, resulting from the stipulations in the contract, necessarily impairs it. The manner or degree in which this change is effected can in no respect influence the conclusion; for whether the law affect the validity, the construction, the duration, the discharge, or the evidence of the contract, it impairs its obligation, through it may not do so to the same extent in all the supposed cases. Any deviation from its terms by postponing or accelerating the period of performance which it prescribes, imposing conditions not expressed in the contract, or dispensing with the performance of those which are a part of the contract, however minute or apparently immaterial to their effect upon it, impairs its obligation.

E. J. Lander & Co. v. Deemy, 176 N.W. 922 (N.D. 1920).

The provisions of LB 999 not only extend the period of time in which a stay of execution is granted, but also provide for a partial redemption and a right to cure a default. Additionally, the new provisions of §25-1530 substantially increase the definition of a homestead exemption. These changes and provisions lead us to the conclusion that substantial vested rights of the parties would be interfered with if such provisions were to be applied retrospectively.

It may be conceded that, ordinarily, the rules of the court procedure alone may at any time be changed by legislative enactment, but if a legislative enactment does, in fact, impair or affect a vested right it is unenforceable or inapplicable as against the enforcement of rights so impaired. What belongs merely to the remedy may be altered, provided that the alteration does not impair the obligation of the contract or interfere with the vested right. If it does the latter, then it is invalid and contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the federal Constitution.

Travelers Ins. Co. v. Ohler, supra, at 125-26.

You have also asked whether or not the additional requirement concerning the receivership provisions in Neb.Rev.Stat. §25-1084, is in conflict with the general statutes concerning individuals who may be appointed receivers. We would point out that Neb.Rev.Stat. §25-1086, provides in part that "no person shall be appointed receiver who is party, solicitor, counsel, or in any manner interested in the suit." The proposed language in 25-1084, is as follows:

If a receiver is appointed in an action for the foreclosure of a farm mortgage, the farmer-debtor shall be appointed receiver unless a preponderance of the evidence indicates that the farmer-debtor would be unable to preserve the property. The farmer-debtor, if appointed receiver, shall be exempt from the bond requirements of section 25-1084.

We find this provision to be inconsistent with the general proposition that a receiver should be impartial and disinterested. When there are adversary rights to be determined, a person who is appointed receiver should be indifferent as to claims between the parties. 75 C.J.S. Receivers, §71. See also, Veith v. Ress, 60 Neb. 52, 82 N.W. 116 (1958).

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

8 When deciding whether to grant the request for such 9 videotape deposition the court shall consider the 10 following factors:

11 (a) The child's chronological age, level of 12 development, and capacity to comprehend the significance
13 of the events and to verbalize about them;

14 (b) The child's general physical and mental 15 health;

16 (c) Whether the events about which the child
17 will testify constitute criminal or antisocial conduct
18 against the child or a person with whom the child had a
19 close emotional relationship, and if such conduct
20 constituted a physical or sexual assault, its duration
1 and the extent of physical or emotional injury caused by
2 such assault;

3 (d) The child's custodial situation and the 4 attitude of other household members to the events about 5 which the child will testify and to the underlying
6 proceeding;

7 (e) The child's familial or emotional
8 relationship to the defendant in the underlying
9 proceeding;

10 (f) The child's behavior at or reaction to 11 previous interviews concerning the events involved;

12 (g) Whether the child blames himself or

9 such proceeding, and the mental or emotional strain
10 associated with keeping the child's recollection of 11 events witnessed fresh for that period of time; and

12 (j) Whether the videotape deposition
13 procedures ordered by the court would reduce the mental 14 or emotional strain of testifying, and whether the 15 deposition could be used to reduce the number of times
16 the child will be required to testify.

17 (3)(a) If the court grants a request for a

3 adequate opportunity to cross-examine the child.

4 (b) In order to carry out its obligations
5 prescribed in subdivision (a) of this subsection, the

8 child's recollection is likely to be fresh and at a time
9 of day when the child's energy and attention span are

12 provides adequate privacy, freedom from distractions, 13 informality, and comfort appropriate to the child's 14 developmental level;

15 (iii) Order a recess whenever the energy,
16 comfort, or attention span of the child so warrants;

17 (iv) Determine that the child understands that 18 it is wrong to tell a lie and will testify truthfully, 19 if the child's developmental level or verbal skills are 20 such that administration of an oath or affirmation in

21 the usual form would be inappropriate;

22 (v) Before questioning by the parties begins,
23 attempt to place the child at ease, explain to the child
24 the purpose of the deposition, and identify all persons
1 attending;

2 (vi) Allow any questioner to have an advisor

11 actual damages sustained by the victim.

12 Sec. 2. To determine the amount of
13 restitution, the court may hold a hearing at the time of 14 sentencing. The amount of restitution shall be based on

15 the actual damages sustained by the victim and shall be
16 supported by evidence which shall become a part of the 17 court record. The court shall consider the defendant's
18 earning ability, employment status, financial resources,
19 and family or other legal obligations and shall balance
20 such considerations against the obligation to the
21 victim. The court may order that restitution be made
1 immediately, in specified installments, or within a
2 specified period of time, not to exceed five years after
3 the defendant's final release date from imprisonment.

4 Sec. 3. In determining restitution, if the
5 offense results in damage, destruction, or loss of
6 property, the court may require: (1) Return of the 7 property to the victim, if possible; (2) payment of the
8 reasonable value of repairing the property, including
9 property returned by the defendant; or (3) payment of
10 the reasonable replacement value of the property if
11 return or repair is impossible, impractical, or
12 inadequate. If the offense results in bodily injury,
13 the court may require payment of necessary medical care,
14 including, but not limited to, physical or psychological
15 treatment and therapy, and payment for income lost due
16 to such bodily injury. If the offense results in the 17 death of the victim, the court may require payment to be
18 made to the estate of the victim for the cost of any
19 medical care prior to death and for funeral and burial
20 expenses.

21 Sec. 4. The court shall not impose
22 restitution for a loss for which the victim has received
23 compensation, except that the court may order payment by 24 the defendant to any person who has compensated the
1 victim to the extent that such compensation has been
2 provided. Any amount paid to a victim pursuant to an
3 order of restitution shall be set off against any amount
4 later recovered as compensatory damages in a civil
5 action.

6 Sec. 5. If the defendant is placed on 7 probation or paroled, any restitution ordered under this
8 act shall be a condition of such probation or parole.
9 The court may revoke probation and the Board of Parole
10 may revoke parole if the defendant fails to comply with 11 such order. In determining whether to revoke probation
12 or parole, the court or Board of Parole shall consider
13 the defendant's earning ability and financial resources, 14 the willfulness of the defendant's failure to pay, and

15 any special circumstances affecting the defendant's
16 ability to pay. If the defendant fails to comply with a
17 restitution order which is not a condition of probation
18 or parole, the court may order the defendant to appear
19 at a time, date, and place for a hearing or issue a
20 warrant for his or her arrest. If, after notice and a 21 hearing, the court finds that noncompliance with the 22 restitution order is willful, the court may punish the 23 defendant by a fine or imprisonment as provided by the 24 original offense charged, with credit for time served or
1 fines or restitution paid.

2 Sec. 6. A defendant, victim, or the personal
3 representative of the victim's estate may petition the
4 sentencing court to adjust or otherwise waive payment or
5 performance of any ordered restitution or any unpaid or
6 unperformed portion thereof. The court may schedule a
7 hearing and give the parties notice of the hearing,
8 date, place, and time and inform the parties that he or
9 she will have an opportunity to be heard. If the court
10 finds that the circumstances upon which it based the
11 imposition or amount and method of payment or other
12 restitution ordered no longer exist or that it otherwise
13 would be unjust to require payment or other restitution
14 as imposed, the court may adjust or waive payment of the 15 unpaid portion thereof or other restitution or modify
16 the time or method of making restitution.

17 Sec. 7. An order of restitution may be
18 enforced by a victim named in the order to receive the
19 restitution or the personal representative of the
20 victim's estate in the same manner as a judgment in a
21 civil action. If the victim is deceased and no claim is
22 filed by the personal representative of the estate or if
23 the victim cannot be found, the Attorney General may
1 Victim's Compensation Fund.

2 Sec. 8. (1) This act shall not limit or
3 impair the right of a victim to sue and recover damages
4 from the defendant in a civil action.

5 (2) The findings in the sentencing hearing and
6 the fact that restitution was required or paid is not
7 admissible as evidence in a civil action and has no
8 legal effect on the merits of a civil action.

9 (3) Any restitution paid by the defendant to
10 the victim shall be set off against any judgment in 11 favor of the victim in a civil action arising out of the

12 facts or events which were the basis for the 13 restitution. The court trying the civil action shall 14 hold a separate hearing to determine the validity and
15 amount of any set off asserted by the defendant.

16 Sec. 9. If restitution is imposed on an
17 organization, it shall be the duty of any person
18 authorized to order the disbursement of assets of the
19 organization, and his or her superiors, to pay the
20 restitution from assets of the organization under his or
21 her control. Failure to do so renders a person subject
22 to an order to show cause why he or she should not be
23 held in contempt of court.

24 Sec. 10. (1) Whenever a victim is paid by the
1 Victim's Compensation Fund for loss arising out of a
2 criminal act, the fund is subrogated to the rights of
3 the victim to any restitution ordered by the court.

4 (2) The rights of the Victim's Compensation
5 Fund are subordinate to the claims of victims who have
6 suffered loss arising out of the offenses or any
7 transaction which is part of the same continuous scheme

Introduced by Schmit, 23rd District; Vickers, 38th District; Eret, 32nd District; Lamb, 43rd District; Carsten, 2nd District; R. Johnson, 34th District.

WHEREAS, there are approximately two hundred thousand farmers that hold two-thirds of the farm debt and one half of this group, a number estimated to be one hundred thousand to one hundred twenty-five thousand, face serious financial difficulties and are at a point where, to avoid liquidation, substantial debt restructuring will be needed throughout the next two years; and

WHEREAS, the forced liquidation of a significant number of farms could create a domino effect including failed banks, failed agricultural businesses, and the decline of rural America in general; and

WHEREAS, legislation passed last December to rescue the Farm Credit System, served to assist the Farm Credit Banks and restore investor confidence in the Farm Credit Bonds, but to date the Farm Credit System has shown no indication of altering its current policy of shunting troubled loans or forcing liquidations with little thought to debt restructuring; and

WHEREAS, the American Farm Bureau Federation has proposed a new two tiered debt restructuring program that will help financially troubled farmers deal with massive debts and prevent bankruptcy; and

WHEREAS, this program represents a positive step by the American Farm Bureau to help farmers and lenders reach their mutual goal of financial stability through debt restructuring, not debt forgiveness; and

WHEREAS, the success or failure of such a proposal will depend upon the acceptance and support of the Reagan administration, the Department of Agriculture, the Federal Reserve Bank, the Farmer's Home Administration, the F.D.I.C., and the Farm Credit System.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Legislature commends the American Farm Bureau for the initiative it has shown in developing a proposal to restructure farm debt, and that it supports the American Farm Bureau in its presentation of the plan to federal authorities.

2. That the Nebraska Legislature urges the Farm Credit System, the Farmers Home Administration, and commercial lenders through the authority of the F.D.I.C. to recognize and adopt the American Farm Bureau's two tiered debt restructuring plan.

3. That a copy of this resolution be sent to Dean Kleckner, President of the American Farm Bureau; Bryce Neidig, President of the Nebraska Farm Bureau; Paul Volcker, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Vance Clark, Chairman of the Farmers Home Administration; Frank Naylor, Chairman of the Farm Credit Administration; H. Brent Beesley, President of the Farm Credit System; Richard Lyng, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture; and the entire Nebraska congressional delegation.

Opinion No. 86034

March 11, 1986

To: Senator Rod Johnson

Subject: LB 1239, Environmental Protection Act, Exemption for Political Subdivisions

You have requested an opinion from our office concerning a proposed exemption for political subdivisions from the requirements of the Environmental Protection Act relative to Nebraska water quality standards. The proposed language in Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-1528 (Supp. 1984) is as follows:

(7) The Environmental Protection Act shall not apply to any political subdivision with respect to the ownership, control, or operation of any dam, water control structure, or hydroelectric plant or facility if the activities of such political subdivision with respect to the ownership, control, or operation of such dam, water control structure, or hydroelectric plant or facility do not result in the introduction of any toxic substance or agent into the air, water, or land.

We note that subsection (1) of §81-1528 provides that:

The Environmental Protection Act shall not apply in any political subdivision which provides for the control of air, water, or land pollution by resolution, ordinance, or regulation not inconsistent with the substantive provisions of the Environmental Protection Act or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to such act, except that no such resolution, ordinance, or regulation shall become effective until a certificate of exemption has been issued by the director. Such certificate of exemption shall be available for inspection in the office of the county, city, or village clerk as the case may be.

(Emphasis added.) It is evident that political subdivisions may be exempted from the Environmental Protection Act under certain circumstances. However, those political subdivisions must provide for their own regulation not inconsistent with the general provisions of the Environmental Protection Act and any rules and regulations adopted pursuant to the same. Title 117, Nebraska Water Quality Standards for Surface Waters of the State, Chapter 1, Application of Standards, provides in part as follows:

024 "Surface Waters shall mean all waters within the jurisdiction of this State, including all streams, lakes, ponds, impounding reservoirs, marshes, watercourses, waterways, springs, canal systems, drainage systems, and all other bodies or accumulations of water, natural or artificial, public or private, situated wholly or partly within or bordering upon the State.

The provisions of Title 117, Chapter 3 set forth the antidegradation requirements. Subsection 001 indicates that:

The environmental quality of surface waters, consistent with uses applied in these standards, shall be maintained and protected.

Water quality degradation which would adversely affect existing recognized uses will not be allowed.

Beneficial water uses are set forth in Chapter 4 relative to recreation, aquatic life, water supply, and aesthetics and public health. Subsection 001 of Chapter 3 provides that "the environmental quality of surface waters, consistent with uses applied in these standards, shall be maintained and protected." Chapter 4 sets forth general numeric criteria applicable to all surface waters of the State with respect to beneficial uses relative to hydrogen ion concentrations, temperatures, turbidity, petroleum oil, toxic substances, and primary and secondary contact recreation.

The proposed exemption in LB 1239 would exempt political subdivisions with respect to the ownership, control, or operation of any dam, water control structure, or hydroelectric plant or facility if the activities of the same did not result in "the introduction of any toxic substance or agent into the air, water, or land." Thus, these political subdivisions would, in essence, be exempt from the requirements of Title 117 regulating other water quality standards such as temperature, hydrogen ion concentrations, etc.

It is our opinion that the exemption of political subdivisions from the requirements of the Environmental Protection Act is unconstitutional as a violation of Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution which prohibits the passing of local or special laws. It is a general proposition of law that even though questions of classification are primarily for the Legislature, there must be some rational basis for the classification. State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, 300 N.W.2d 181 (1980). In general, the Legislature may make reasonable classifications, resting on grounds of public policy, or some substantial difference of situation or circumstance that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the object being classified. Duerfeldt v. State Game and Parks Commission, 184 Neb. 242, 166 N.W.2d 737 (1969).

Our reading of the Environmental Protection Act reveals that political subdivisions may be exempted from the Act only in certain circumstances. Those circumstances arise when the political subdivision by resolution, ordinance, or regulation provides for the control of air, water, or land pollution which is not inconsistent with the substantive provisions of Act. The proposed exemption for political subdivisions would make the Act applicable to them only in the event of the introduction of any toxic substance or agent into the air, water, or land. That exemption is inconsistent with the general provisions of the Act relative to the maintenance of adequate water quality standards for surface waters of the state. Therefore, it is our conclusion that the proposed exemption is unconstitutional. Further, we see no reasonable basis for this classification or any substantial difference in situation or circumstance to treat political subdivisions differently with respect to the purposes of the Environmental Protection Act to protect surface waters of the State.

To the extent that we have answered the first question concerning the constitutionality of this exemption, we find it unnecessary to address the other questions posed in your opinion request. Should you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact this office.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 86035
March 13, 1986

To: Senator John W. DeCamp

Subject: LB 788 - Amendments to Child Pornography Prevention Act

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of LB 788, a bill proposing to amend certain provisions of the Child Pornography Prevention Act, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§28-1463.01 to 28-1463.05 (Supp. 1985). Specifically, you ask whether the Act as amended violates the First Amendment by failing to define "pornography" in terms of the three-part definition of "obscenity" in Miller v. California, 413 U.S. 15 (1973), requiring that, to be obscene, materials must, "taken as a whole, appeal to the prurient interest, must contain patently offensive depictions or descriptions of specified sexual conduct, and on the whole have no serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value." Brockett v. Spokane Arcades, Inc., 472 U.S. ___, ___, 86 L.Ed.2d 394, 404, 105 S.Ct. 2794, 2800 (1985).

In New York v. Ferber, 458 U.S. 747 (1982), the Supreme Court considered the issue of the constitutionality of a New York criminal statute prohibiting persons from knowingly promoting a sexual performance by a child under the age of 16 by distributing material which depicted such a performance. The statute defined "sexual performance" as "any performance or part thereof which includes sexual conduct by a child less than sixteen years of age," and defined "sexual conduct" as "actual or simulated sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse, sexual bestiality, masturbation, sado-masochistic abuse, or lewd exhibition of the genitals." Id. at 751.

In upholding the constitutionality of the New York statutory scheme, the Court rejected the argument that the three-part "obscenity" standard articulated in Miller v. California, supra, was applicable in outlining the extent of the state's power to prohibit the production and distribution of materials depicting sexual conduct involving children:

The Miller standard, like all general definitions of what may be banned as obscene, does not reflect the State's particular and more compelling interest in prosecuting those who promote the sexual exploitation of children. Thus, the question under the Miller test of whether a work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest of the average person bears no connection to the issue of whether a child has been physically or psychologically harmed in the production of the work. Similarly, a sexually explicit depiction need not be "patently offensive" in order to have required the sexual exploitation of a child for its production. In addition, a work which, taken on the whole, contains serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value may nevertheless embody the hardest core of child pornography. . . . We therefore cannot conclude that the Miller standard is a satisfactory solution to the child pornography problem.

458 U.S. at 761 (footnote omitted).

The Court in Ferber, stating that child pornography constituted "a category of material outside the protection of the First Amendment," established the following guidelines concerning legislation in this area:

There are, of course, limits on the category of child pornography which, like obscenity, is unprotected by the First Amendment. As with all legislation in this sensitive area, the conduct to be prohibited must be adequately defined by the applicable state law, as written or authoritatively construed. Here the nature of the harm to be combated requires that the state offense be limited to works that visually depict sexual conduct by children below a specified age. The category of "sexual conduct" proscribed must also be suitably limited and described.

Id. at 763, 764 (footnote omitted).

Applying these standards to the Child Pornography Prevention Act, as amended by LB 788, we believe it is clear that the Act is constitutional under the guidelines enunciated in Ferber. The conduct prohibited is adequately defined, and the criminal offenses provided for under the Act are limited to materials which visually depict sexual conduct by children under 17 years of age. Furthermore, the types of sexual conduct proscribed, as defined in Section 1 of LB 788, are adequately limited and described. In fact, the definitions utilized in the Act are similar to those contained in the federal Child Protection Act of 1984, 18 U.S.C. §§2251 to 2255. The constitutionality of the federal Act was recently upheld in United States v. Tolczeki, 614 F.Supp. 1424 (N.D. Ohio, E.D. 1985).

We note that, in your letter, you direct our attention to a recent Seventh Circuit decision, American Booksellers, Inc. v. Hudnut, 771 F.2d 323 (7th Cir. 1985), involving the constitutionality of an Indianapolis pornography ordinance. The ordinance challenged in Hudnut defined "pornography" as "the graphic sexually explicit subordination of women, whether in pictures or in words." Id. at 324. The court held that this definition, which did not refer to prurient interests, to offensiveness, or to standards of the community, and which also demanded attention to particular depictions and not to the work judged as a whole, violated the First Amendment. Id. at 332.

In our view, the decision in Hudnut does not in any way bring into question the constitutionality of the Nebraska Child Pornography Prevention Act. As was noted, the Supreme Court in Ferber specifically rejected the notion that the test for child pornography must be identical to the obscenity standard enunciated in Miller v. California. Ferber recognizes that a state may, consistent with the First Amendment, prohibit the production and distribution of materials which depict children engaged in sexual conduct, regardless of whether such material is "obscene." In fact, the court in Hudnut, supra, specifically recognized that Ferber clearly provides states with greater leeway in the regulation of materials containing pornographic depictions of children:

New York v. Ferber, 458 U.S. 747, 102 S.Ct. 3348, 73 L.Ed.2d 1113 (1982), suggests that when a state has a strong interest in forbidding the conduct that makes up a film (in Ferber sexual acts involving minors), it may restrict or forbid dissemination of the film in order to reinforce the prohibition of the conduct.
771 F.2d at 332.

Based upon the foregoing, it is our opinion that the Child Pornography Prevention Act, as amended by LB 788, is constitutional.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

10 such motor vehicles, commercial trailers, semitrailers, 11 or cabin trailers. Licensed dealers need not apply for 12 certificates of title for motor vehicles, commercial 13 trailers, semitrailers, or cabin trailers in stock or

18 assignment of a manufacturer's or importer's
19 certificate.

20 (7) An application for a certificate of title

22 inspection has been conducted on the vehicle unless (a)
23 the title sought is a salvage certificate of title as 24 defined in section 60-129, (b) the surrendered ownership
1 document is a Nebraska certificate of title, a

8 the county sheriff of the county in which application is 9 made or by any other holder of a current certificate of 10 training and shall be in a format as determined by the 11 department. The clerk may accept a certificate of 12 inspection, approved by the ~~Department of Motor Vehicles~~
13 Superintendent of Law Enforcement and Public Safety,
14 from an officer of a state police agency of another
15 state. For each inspection, a fee of ten dollars shall 16 be paid to the county treasurer. All such fees shall be 17 credited to the county sheriff's vehicle inspection
18 account within the county general fund. The 19 identification inspection required by this subsection

20 shall include examination and notation of the current 21 odometer reading and a comparison of the vehicle
22 identification number with the number listed on the 23 ownership records, except that if a lien is registered
24 against a vehicle and recorded on the vehicle's
1 ownership records, the county clerk shall provide a copy
2 of the ownership records for use in making such 3 comparison. If such numbers are not identical; or if 4 there is reason to believe further inspection is 5 necessary, the person performing the inspection shall 6 make a further inspection of the vehicle which may 7 include, but shall not be limited to, examination of 8 other identifying numbers placed on the vehicle by the 9 manufacturer and an inquiry into the numbering system
10 used by the state issuing such ownership records to 11 determine ownership of a vehicle. The identification
12 inspection shall also include a statement that the 13 vehicle identification number has been checked for entry
14 in the National Crime Information Center and the 15 Nebraska Crime Information Service. If there is cause
16 to believe that odometer fraud exists, written

21 shall be issued. In the case of an assembled vehicle
22 such inspection shall include, but not be limited to, an 23 examination of the records showing the date of receipt 24 and source of each major component part, as defined in
1 section 60-2601.

2 Sec. 16. That section 81-2007, Reissue
3 Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read

March 14, 1986

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Senators:

I am herewith returning LB 839 with my signature but with certain line-item veto reductions.

I have reduced the amount for the Homestead Exemption deficit by $5,360,000 from $6,550,000 to $1,190,000. This should come as no surprise as I had indicated in mid-December that a 25% increase, which was completely unanticipated by any of us, was unacceptable.

Since that time, this issue has assumed additional importance. Your decision on whether or not to sustain my veto will almost certainly determine if we are going to increase the income or sales tax rate in order to balance our budget.

The Appropriations Committee has recommended to you a budget and revenue package that would allow the funding of this deficit and a like increase in the FY 86/87 budget, however, their proposal include a tax increase which would remove $25 million from our troubled economy.

By removing this $5,360,000 from this year's budget and a like amount from the FY 86/87 recommendation, we can save over $10.7 million. A reduction in the reserve from the planned 4% to 3% would save an additional $8.4 million. By depositing the additional insurance premium taxes into the General Fund and making a small reduction in the amount set aside for "A" Bills, we can have a reasonable budget, a tight but adequate reserve and no tax rate increases.

In previous years, the Legislature has considered the deficit appropriation along with the bulk of the other spending measures. This year, you have been asked to act on this issue before considering next year's budget. It is critical that you consider this veto in the overall context of the decisions that you will be forced to make in the near future. If my veto is overridden, I am convinced the sales or income tax rate will have to be increased. If my veto is sustained, I am convinced we can achieve a balanced budget without a tax increase.

Sincerely,
(Signed) ROBERT KERREY
Governor

RESOLUTION

Introduced by Morehead, 30th District; Eret, 32nd District.

WHEREAS, the Fairbury campus of Southeast Community College is an integral and vital part of the Fairbury community and has been so since its origination as Fairbury Junior College in 1941; and

WHEREAS, the Fairbury campus is the only campus of SECC offering academic transfer credit, thus allowing its students to continue degrees at four year institutions; and

WHEREAS, many students of the Fairbury campus are non-traditional students who live within driving distance of the campus and for various reasons are not able to move to another location; and

WHEREAS, the education provided to residents of Southeast Nebraska by the Fairbury campus of SECC in many instances could not be obtained if the student could not live at home to save on costs or continue to assist with work at home; and

WHEREAS, a possibility exists that the Board of SECC will close or merge the Fairbury campus with another SECC campus; and

WHEREAS, any consolidation of the Fairbury campus with another campus would simply involve adding the classes currently taught at Fairbury to the curriculum of the other campus, since the programs at the other SECC campuses are vocational; and

WHEREAS, any savings which could be effected by closing or merging the Fairbury campus would be minimal in comparison to the devastating impact such an act would have on the educational, cultural and economic life of the community; and

WHEREAS, many residents, not only from Fairbury, but from the entire area have expressed a concern about any proposal to change the status of the Fairbury campus.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That this Legislature go on record as supporting the retention of the Fairbury campus of SECC if there is no compelling reason shown for its closure.

2. That all other methods for addressing the budget of SECC be investigated thoroughly before any decision is made to close the Fairbury campus.

3. That the impact on the lives of students, especially those non-traditional students who are permanently situated and could not obtain an education elsewhere, be considered before any decision is made on the Fairbury campus.

4. That the SECC Board be informed of the concern of the Legislature in this issue and be presented a copy of this resolution.

Laid over.

EXECUTIVE BOARD REPORT

1986 Interim Study Policy

The Executive Board of the Legislative Council has adopted the following policy with regard to the conduct of interim studies during the 1986 interim:

“Each standing committee will determine what subject matter it will study during the interim and draft a resolution to that effect.”

Under this policy individual senators will not introduce study resolutions covering specific areas, but rather will work with and through the regular standing committees in assisting in the formulation of their ultimate study agendas. In fact, individual senators are urged to present their ideas for interim study projects to the appropriate standing committees.

In addition, under the provisions of Sections 50-402 and 50-404, the Executive Board will continue to develop other special studies as it deems necessary and appropriate, the staff resources for which will be provided by the Legislative Research Division. Here, too, the input of individual senators will be expected and encouraged.

7 of any judicial or nonjudicial action or proceeding to 8 accelerate indebtedness, foreclose, repossess, or 9 otherwise execute upon the terms of a loan or security
10 agreement, deed of trust, or state law when such right
11 is based on the borrower's alleged default, the lender
12 or holder of the secured interest shall deliver written 13 notice to the borrower and to the Public Counsel by 14 certified mail. The notice provided to the Public 15 Counsel shall commence the process of mediation as 16 described in this section.

17 (2) The notice required by subsection (1) of 18 this section shall include: (a) In the case of 19 acceleration, a statement of the financial implications

13 deems necessary for the discharge of his or her
14 responsibilities by the lender and borrower involved.
15 He or she may inspect and examine any records and

AM2582

- 1 1. Insert the following new section:
- 2 "Section 1. That section 8-157, Revised
- 3 Statutes Supplement, 1985, be amended to read as
- 4 follows:

5 8-157. (1) No bank shall maintain any branch
6 bank and, except as provided in subsections (2) to (11)
7 of this section and section 8-122.01, the general
8 business of every bank shall be transacted at the place
9 of business specified in its charter.

10 (2) With the approval of the director (a) any 11 bank may maintain an attached auxiliary office if such 12 office is physically connected by a pneumatic tube or
13 tubes or a walkway, tunnel, or any other electronic,
14 mechanical, or structural connection or attachment for
15 the public use of the bank and is within two hundred
16 feet of the building containing the premises specified
17 as its place of business in its charter or any adjacent 18 connected building housing a continuation of the 19 operations of the bank's main office and is not within
20 three hundred feet of another bank or another bank's
21 auxiliary or detached office and (b) any bank may
1 establish and maintain ~~commencing (i) in 1983 not more~~
2 ~~than three detached auxiliary offices, (ii) in 1984 not~~
3 ~~more than four detached auxiliary offices, and (iii) in~~
4 ~~1985 and thereafter not more than five detached~~
5 auxiliary offices at which all banking transactions
6 allowed by law may be made. Such auxiliary offices
7 shall be within the ~~corporate limits of the city~~ county
8 in which such bank is located or within any county
9 contiguous to the county in which the principal banking
10 office of such bank is located. Any bank that 11 establishes and maintains two or more auxiliary offices
12 shall locate one of such offices within three miles of 13 the premises specified as its place of business in its 14 charter. No auxiliary office shall be located within 15 three hundred feet of another bank or within fifty feet
16 of another auxiliary office. Any detached auxiliary
17 office established and maintained by a bank pursuant to 18 the acquisition or merger of an institution under 19 sections 8-1506 to 8-1510 shall not count against the 20 number or location of detached auxiliary offices
21 permitted under this section.

22 (3) With the approval of the director, a bank
23 may acquire another bank in Nebraska as the result of a
24 purchase or merger so long as the acquired bank has been
1 chartered for more than five years and the acquired
2 institution and its detached auxiliary offices are
3 converted to auxiliary offices of the acquiring bank.
4 Such auxiliary offices shall not count against the

5 number of locations of detached auxiliary offices
6 permitted under subsections (1) and (2) of this section.

7 (4) The name given to any detached bank or
8 branch bank established and maintained pursuant to this
9 section shall not be substantially similar to the name
10 of any existing bank or branch bank which is
11 unaffiliated with the newly created bank or branch bank
12 and is located in the same municipality. The name of 13 such newly created bank or branch bank shall be approved
14 by the director.

15 (5) With the approval of the director, any
16 bank or banks may establish and maintain any number of 17 electronic satellite facilities or manned electronic
18 satellite facilities at which all banking transactions,
19 defined as receiving deposits of every kind and nature
20 and crediting such to customer accounts, cashing checks
21 and cash withdrawals, transfer of funds from checking
22 accounts to savings accounts, transfer of funds from
23 savings accounts to checking accounts, transfer of funds
24 from either checking accounts and savings accounts to
1 accounts of other customers, payment transfers from
2 customer accounts into accounts maintained by other bank
3 customers or the bank, including preauthorized draft
4 authority, preauthorized loans, and credit transactions,
5 receiving payments payable at the bank or otherwise, and
6 such other transactions that the Director of Banking and
7 Finance upon application, notice, and hearing may
8 approve, may be conducted. Such electronic satellite
9 facilities or manned electronic satellite facilities may
10 be established only by a bank as defined in subdivision
11 (4) of section 8-101 or by a national banking
12 association whose main chartered office is located in 13 the State of Nebraska. Neither such electronic
14 satellite facilities, the manned electronic satellite
15 facilities, nor the transactions conducted thereat shall 16 be construed as the establishment of a branch bank or as
17 branch banking. Such facilities shall be available on a
18 nondiscriminating basis for use by customers of any
19 other bank becoming a user bank. It shall not be deemed
20 discrimination if a facility does not offer the same
21 transaction services as other facilities.

22 Any bank may become a user bank by agreeing to
23 pay the establishing bank its transaction fees. Such
24 agreement may be implied by the use of such facilities.

1 Nothing in this subsection shall prohibit a user bank

2 from agreeing to responsibilities and benefits which
3 might be contained in a standardized agreement. The
4 establishing bank shall file with the director the
5 information necessary to originate a transaction at any
6 facility. Such information shall contain a means of
7 designating the bank or processor to which such
8 transactions shall be switched and shall also contain
9 information adequate to perform authorization of cash
10 withdrawal and other transactions authorized by this
11 section. The director shall make such information
12 available to any other bank desiring to become a user
13 bank. The establishing bank shall be responsible for
14 transmitting transactions originating from its facility
15 to a switch, but nothing contained in this section may
16 be construed to provide that any inhouse or auxiliary
17 office premises transactions shall be required to go
18 through a switch. The director shall refuse to approve
19 the establishment of any electronic satellite facilities
20 or manned electronic satellite facilities unless such
21 facilities will be available on a nondiscriminating
22 basis through methods, fees, and processes that the
23 establishing bank has provided for switching
24 transactions. Once approval is given for the facility
1 of an establishing bank, the director, upon notice and
2 after a hearing, may revoke the approval for the
3 facility or may suspend the use of such facility if he
4 or she determines that it is not available on a
5 nondiscriminating basis, that the necessary information
6 is not on file with the director, or that transactions
7 originated by customers of user banks are not being
8 switched to processing centers. Nothing in this section
9 may be construed to prohibit nonbank employees from
10 assisting in transactions originated at the facilities,
11 and such assistance shall not be deemed to be engaging
12 in the business of banking. Such nonbank employees may 13 be trained in the use of the facilities by bank
14 employees.

15 (6) An establishing bank shall not be deemed
16 to make a facility available on a nondiscriminating
17 basis if, through personnel services offered,
18 advertising on or off the facility premises, or
19 otherwise, it discriminates in the use of the facility
20 against any user bank.

21 (7) Off-premises electronic satellite
22 facilities and manned electronic satellite facilities

23 may be established and maintained by a bank or by a
24 group of two or more banks or a combination of a bank or
1 banks and a third party. No one, through personnel
2 services offered, advertising on or off the facility
3 premises, or otherwise, may discriminate in the use of
4 the facility against any other user bank desiring to use
5 the services of the facility.

6 (8) It is an intent of this section that this
7 section shall apply to banks chartered by the State of
8 Nebraska and all national banking associations whose
9 main chartered offices are located in the State of 10 Nebraska and that there be an equal opportunity to all
11 Nebraska banks for the use of and access to a switch and
12 that no discrimination shall exist or preferential
13 treatment be given in either the operation of such 14 switch or the charges for use thereof. The operation of
15 such switch shall be with the approval of the Director
16 of Banking and Finance. Approval of such switch shall 17 be given by the Director of Banking and Finance when he
18 or she shall determine that its design and operation are 19 such as to provide access thereto and use thereof by any 20 Nebraska bank without discrimination as to access or
21 cost of its use.

22 (9) If the director, upon notice and hearing,
23 determines at any time that the design or operation of a
24 switch or provision for use thereof does discriminate
1 against any bank in providing access thereto and use
2 thereof either through access thereto or by virtue of
3 the cost of its use, he or she may revoke his or her
4 approval of such switch operation and forthwith order
5 the discontinuance of the operation of such switch.

5 'Section 1. The Legislature recognizes that
6 obtaining testimony in a criminal prosecution from a
7 child-victim of or a child-witness to a felony offense
8 may be a delicate matter and may require some special 9 considerations. It is the intent of the Legislature to 10 promote, facilitate, and preserve the testimony of such 11 child-victim or child-witness in a criminal prosecution
12 to the fullest extent possible consistent with the 13 constitutional right to confrontation guaranteed by the 14 Sixth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States
15 and Article I, section 11 of the Constitution of the 16 State of Nebraska.

17 Sec. 2. That section 29-1917, Reissue Revised
18 Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as
19 follows:

20 29-1917. (1) At Except as provided in section
1 3 of this act, at any time after the filing of an
2 indictment or information in a felony prosecution, the 3 prosecuting attorney or the defendant may request the 4 court to allow the taking of a deposition of any person
5 other than the defendant who may be a witness in the 6 trial of the offense. The court may order the taking of 7 the deposition when it finds the testimony of the 8 witness:

9 (a) May be material or relevant to the issue

11 (b) May be of assistance to the parties in 12 the preparation of their respective cases.

13 (2) An order granting the taking of a 14 deposition shall include the time and place for taking 15 such deposition and such other conditions as the court
16 determines to be just.

17 (3) The proceedings in taking the deposition
18 of a witness pursuant to ~~the provisions of~~ this section
19 and returning it to the court shall be governed in all

20 respects as the taking of depositions in civil cases.

21 (4) A deposition taken pursuant to the 22 ~~provisions of~~ this section may be used at the trial by 23 any party solely for the purpose of contradicting or

3 shall order the taking of a videotape deposition of a
4 child-victim of or child-witness to any felony offense.
5 The deposition ordinarily shall be in lieu of courtroom
6 or in camera testimony by the child. If the court
7 orders a videotape deposition, the court shall:

8 (a) Designate the time and place for taking 9 the deposition. The deposition may be conducted in the 10 courtroom, the judge's chambers, or any other location
11 suitable for videotaping;

12 (b) Assure adequate time for the defense
13 attorney to complete discovery before taking the 17 called as a witness for the prosecution during the 18 course of the trial.

19 (2) Unless otherwise required by the court,
20 the deposition shall be conducted in the presence of the 21 prosecuting attorney, the defense attorney, the 22 defendant, and any other person deemed necessary by the 23 court, including the parent or guardian of the 24 child-victim or child-witness or a counselor or other
1 person with whom the child is familiar. Such parent,
2 counselor, or other person shall be allowed to sit with 3 or near the child unless the court determines that such 4 person would be disruptive to the child's testimony.

5 (3) At any time subsequent to the taking of 6 the original videotape deposition and upon sufficient
7 cause shown, the court shall order the taking of 8 additional videotape depositions to be admitted at the 9 time of the trial.

10 (4) If the child testifies at trial in person
11 rather than by videotape deposition, the taking of the 12 child's testimony may, upon request of the prosecuting
13 attorney and upon sufficient cause shown, be conducted 14 in camera if it is viewable by the jury, any party, the 15 media, and the public in open court. If the court
16 determines it is essential to preserve the

17 constitutionality of the in camera testimony, the court
18 may direct that during the testimony the child shall at 19 all times be in a position to see the defendant live or 20 on camera.

21 (5) For purposes of this section, child shall

Opinion No. 86037
March 19, 1986

To: Senator Rod Johnson

Subject: Constitutionality of LB 1176 Under Article VIII §1A of the Nebraska Constitution

This is in response to your letter of February 11, 1986, in which you ask for an opinion on the constitutionality of §18 of LB 1176 under Article VIII, Section 1A of the Nebraska Constitution.

Section 18 of LB 1176 would authorize the Director of Agriculture to levy a fee upon those receiving services under the Animal Damage Control Program. This fee would be for actual services rendered under the program and could be levied against counties, in addition to individuals, corporations, or associations receiving those services.

Article VIII, Section 1A of the Nebraska Constitution provides that "The state shall be prohibited from levying a property tax for state purposes." As the court noted in State ex rel. Western Technical Community College Area v. Tallon, 196 Neb. 603 at 606, 244 N.W.2d 183, (1976)

When Article VIII, section 1A, of the Constitution of Nebraska, was adopted in its original and amended form, its purpose was to require the state, after the adoption of sales and income taxes, to leave the property-tax field. No state interest or function could then be financed by means of property taxes, but all traditional state interests and functions must be financed by means other than property taxes.

The court has further noted that "The question of whether an act of the Legislature pertains to state purposes or local purposes is a judicial question. There is no sure test by which state purposes may be distinguished from local. This court must consider each case as it arises and draw the line of demarcation.” State ex rel. Western Nebraska Technical Community College Area v. Tallon, 192 Neb. 201 at 211, 219 N.W.2d 544 (1974). In this regard, the court has noted that

The levy of a property tax by a local governmental unit should not be treated as a state levy for state purposes merely because the Legislature has authorized or required the local governmental unit to make the levy. Neither should the fact that the tax is for a “governmental” purpose make it automatically for state purposes rather than local.

R-R Realty Company v. Metropolitan Utilities District, 184 Neb. 237 at 240, 166 N.W.2d 746 (1969). This test, particularly where state and local purposes may be commingled, is whether the controlling and predominant purposes are state purposes or local purposes. State ex rel. Western Nebraska Technical Community College Area v. Tallon, supra.

We have great difficulty concluding that the services provided here upon request of individuals or counties under the Animal Damage Control Program are predominantly state purposes, rather it would seem that the benefits are purely local in nature. This is particularly true when these services are only obtained by an actual request from the particular locality or individuals seeking such services. Consequently it would seem that the predominant purposes to be served by this legislation are primarily local purposes.

We would also be remiss if we did not point out as the court did in Kovarik v. County of Banner, 192 Neb. 816, 224 N.W.2d 761 (1975), that this particular act does not require the county to levy a property tax for this particular service. Obviously, however, the fees will be paid out of the county general fund.

But, “we also wish to point out that counties are not supported solely by property taxes. There are other sources of revenue available to the counties other than property taxes, . . .” Id. at 824. One thus could not conclude, that property taxes would necessarily have to be levied to pay the fees for these services if and when they are requested and received by the county.

For the foregoing reasons we must thus conclude that this provision is not unconstitutional pursuant to Article VIII, Section 1A of the Nebraska Constitution.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

Opinion No. 86038

March 21, 1986

To: Senator Dennis Baack

Subject: Selected Members of the Legislature and of the General Public Serving, Without Salary, on ad Advisory Educational Planning Committee Created by Statute

If it were to become operative law, LB 997 (as amended) of the Eighty-ninth Legislature, Second Session (1986), would authorize the establishment of an educational service unit planning committee of twelve members. Four members would be appointed from the general public by the State Board of Education. Eight members would be appointed by the Executive Board of the Legislative Council, of which four would be from the general public and four would be from the Legislature. Members of the planning committee would receive no salary but would be reimbursed "for expenses pursuant to sections 84-306.01 to 84-306.05 for state employers." Section 7, 8, and 9 of this legislative bill (which create the planning committee and prescribe its duties) "terminate on January 1, 1987." You have asked if sections 7, 8, and 9 of LB 997 are constitutional and in particular if the sections cited violate section 9 of Article III of the Constitution of Nebraska.

We note the following. The planning committee, authorized by LB 997, is not given any executive duties which involve the rights, duties or privileges of others. The initial date the planning committee is to meet, the frequency of its meetings or where it is to meet is not stated. Its expenses, which are unknown, would be paid out of state funds. The duties of the planning committee include the establishment of a plan for the future role and structure of educational service units and to present the plan to the State Board of Education and to the Educational Committee of the Legislature by a date certain. Any such plan would be merely advisory. Thus, arguably, membership on the planning committee would not be a state office and therefore section 9 of Article III of the Constitution of Nebraska would not be violated if this legislative bill were to become operative law.

Section 7 of LB 997 appears to be flawed, however, for a different reason. That section states that the twelve members of the planning committee "shall be representative of all geographic areas of the state." LB 997 does not, however, define what constitutes the "geographic areas of the state" and therein is a flaw. There is simply no way to determine, pursuant to LB 997, what constitutes "all the geographic areas of the state" from which the members of the planning committee are to be representative of. Nor is there any way to determine, pursuant to LB 997, how the appointments are to be made from those areas by the two different appointing authorities. In other words, it appears to us that section 7 of LB 997 requires the doing of an act (appointing members to the planning committee) in terms so vague (representative of all geographic areas of the state) that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application. It would therefore appear that the amendment to LB 997 is void for vagueness. See, In the Interest of D. L. H., 198 Neb. 444, 253 N.W.2d (1977) and State ex rel. Douglas v. Herrington, 206 Neb. 516, 294 N.W.2d 330 (1980). Accordingly, we are of the opinion that sections 7, 8, and 9 of LB 997, as amended, are unconstitutional.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

Introduced by Warner, 25th District.

WHEREAS, the Legislature recognizes the importance of providing reasonable access to postsecondary educational opportunities;

WHEREAS, public postsecondary education is at a crossroads in funding structures and governance;

WHEREAS, changes in the coordination or governance in public postsecondary education may be premature unless the proposed structure reflects statewide public postsecondary educational policies;

WHEREAS, role and mission assignments for public postsecondary education contained in sections 85-917 through 85-967 were developed after three years of legislative study;

WHEREAS, role and mission assignments have been amended for specific institutions and campuses without regard to the entire public postsecondary educational system;

WHEREAS, the existing statutory role and mission assignments for all public postsecondary education should be periodically reviewed from a statewide perspective;

WHEREAS, the Legislature bears the primary and continuing responsibility for developing statewide public postsecondary educational policies.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA SECOND SESSION:

1. That two senators from each of the Congressional Districts in the State and the chair of the Education Committee be appointed by the Executive Board to serve as an interim study committee on the role and mission of postsecondary education.

2. That this committee is directed to investigate the following topics:

- a) what assignment of educational responsibilities among each of the sectors and individual campuses makes the best use of available resources;
- b) what should be the academic, vocational and adult educational roles of the technical community colleges;
- c) what should be the responsibility among sectors and campuses with regard to public service, cooperative extension and off-campus programs;
- d) the feasibility of cooperative programs and some institutional roles being redefined for greater economic and educational efficiency; and
- e) the role of the state in preparing for declining or static enrollments in postsecondary education.

3. That the committee report the results of its investigation and recommendations to the next regular session of the Legislature.

Introduced by Miscellaneous Subjects Committee: Hefner, 19th District, Chairperson; Conway, 17th District; Haberman, 44th District; Hartnett, 45th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Morehead, 30th District; Pappas, 42nd District.

PURPOSE: The Nebraska Liquor Control Act was enacted in 1935. It is a broad act which contains specific regulations in the manufacture, sale, and consumption of alcoholic beverages. Many parts of the act have not been reviewed or modified since its enactment. Other areas have been subjected to considerable amendments and litigation. The purpose of this study is to direct the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee to thoroughly review the Nebraska Liquor Control Act and propose any changes, including a total rewrite of the act, as the committee may deem necessary. The study shall include a review of the following elements:

1. A review of any proposals which the committee may direct or commission to be drafted which may be in the form of total redrafts of the present act. Any model act may be used as a basis for such proposals;
2. A historical review and analysis of the current act and its modifications from 1935 to 1986;
3. A brief review of the provisions of similar laws in other states; and
4. A brief review of federal regulations in the area of alcoholic beverage control.

After its review of the preceding elements, the committee shall draft and offer a proposal for public review. The chairperson of the committee may appoint or designate individuals with particular expertise to assist the committee in its study by offering any recommendations. After this process, the committee shall finalize any proposals and prepare them for introduction in the 1987 Legislative Session.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

Introduced by Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee: Rupp, 22nd District, Chairperson; Baack, 47th District; Hall, 7th District; Labedz, 5th District; McFarland, 28th District; Miller, 37th District; Wesely, 26th District.

Purpose: The purpose of this resolution is to study the Nongame and Endangered Species Conservation Act and its relationship to development projects, especially water projects. The study should explore the need for an exemption process and the possible conflict between the Act and other state policies.

WHEREAS: The Legislature recognizes that nongame, threatened and endangered species have need of special protection to preserve, perpetuate and enhance such species through a satisfactory environment; and

WHEREAS: The Legislature also recognizes the importance of water as a primary resource of Nebraska and that the development of water projects are vital to the progress of Nebraska;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Legislature study the Nebraska Nongame and Endangered Species Conservation Act and determine whether it is accomplishing its original legislative intent and whether there is a need for an exemption process regarding the Nongame and Endangered Species Conservation Act.

2. That the Legislature research situations where conflicting policies have not been resolved or resolved unsatisfactorily and determine what changes can be undertaken to enhance the preservation of endangered species as well as future development projects.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 388.

Introduced by Revenue Committee: V. Johnson, 8th District, Chairperson; Hartnett, 45th District; Landis, 46th District; Miller, 37th District; Pirsch, 10th District; Rogers, 41st District.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this resolution is to set forth five areas of study relating to revenue and taxations. Such areas of study shall include:

(1) A study regarding the taxation of community antenna television service, commonly known as cable TV. The study shall include an examination of the taxes which currently are paid by cable TV companies in Nebraska, methods which are used to tax these companies in other states, and the propriety of including cable TV companies under the statutory definition of public service entities, which are subject to a franchise tax;

(2) An examination of the eligibility of the elderly and disabled for the homestead exemption based on income as well as the actual exemption level. The study shall consider the equity of existing homestead exemption laws and the application of income eligibility standards and shall also examine the possibility of expanding the homestead exemption based on income eligibility for veterans and their spouses;

(3) An examination of the abuses in the use of the nonhighway use motor vehicle fuel income tax credit. The examination shall include, but not be limited to: (a) How to control the abuses; and (b) the elimination of the nonhighway use credit;

(4) An examination of the existing use of auditing at the Department of Revenue. The examination shall include, but not be limited to:

- (a) The coverage of the various tax programs;
- (b) The current return on expenditures;
- (c) The cost of compliance audits; and
- (d) Equipment and personnel needs for compliance auditing;

(5) A study of the feasibility of transferring selected duties of the Department of Motor Vehicles to the Department of Revenue. The study shall include an examination of:

(a) Which functions of the Department of Motor Vehicles could appropriately, and effectively be carried out by the Department of Revenue;

(b) The potential cost savings of such a transfer; and

(c) The disposition of those functions of the Department of Motor Vehicles which would not fall under the jurisdiction of the Department of Revenue.

Should the study show that a transfer of duties is feasible, a plan shall be developed outlining the details of such a transfer. When conducting this study, the Revenue Committee shall seek the active involvement of the Department of Revenue and the Department of Motor Vehicles.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Revenue Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

Introduced by Withem, 14th District.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this resolution is to study the funding of public school education in the State of Nebraska. Because public school education is a valuable and necessary resource, the Legislature needs to study the current state aid to education formula which has been employed since 1967. The study shall include, but not be limited to, an examination of the state's role in distributing its resources to provide an opportunity for all students to receive an equal education and have equal access to financial resources.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That a Select committee be appointed by the Executive Board of the Legislature to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

Introduced by Urban Affairs Committee: Withem, 14th District, Chairperson.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this resolution is to investigate problems unique to Nebraska municipalities and sanitary and improvement districts. Because Nebraska municipalities range in population from two to over three hundred thousand inhabitants and vary from rural agricultural villages to a metropolitan center linked by suburbs, the needs and problems which these municipalities confront are unique to each based on such diverse conditions.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Urban Affairs Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 391.

Introduced by Withem, 14th District.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this resolution is to ascertain the need, if any, for additional judicial resources in the separate juvenile courts of Nebraska or other changes needed, to improve the operation of the separate juvenile courts in this state. To implement this study, the Executive Board shall appoint a special task force to be known as the Separate Juvenile Court Study Commission to undertake the study. Such special task force shall consist of nine members as follows: (a) A county attorney; (b) an attorney with juvenile court experience; (c) a judge with juvenile court experience; (d) two members of the Legislature; (e) a mental health professional with experience in child welfare cases; (f) a representative from the public schools; and (g) two members of the general public. Such study shall include, but not be limited to, an investigation of the following:

(1) The number of cases processed by each of the separate juvenile courts during the past five years;

(2) The average amounts of time cases are pending;

(3) The frequency and length of hearings conducted in each case;

(4) The length of time children are held in detention, in temporary foster care, or in other circumstances against their will or that of a parent before a hearing is conducted on the merits of the case;

(5) Whether the cases are processed with adequate thoroughness and judicial attention;

(6) Whether the implementation of or changes in case progression standards are necessary to protect the interests of the children involved; and

(7) Other areas the task force deems necessary to accomplish the purposes of this study.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Separate Juvenile Court Study Commission be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the legal counsel for the Judiciary Committee be designated as a staff member to the Separate Juvenile Court Study Commission.

3. That the Separate Juvenile Court Study Commission shall, upon the conclusion of its study, make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature by December 1, 1986.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 392.

Introduced by Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee: Harris, 27th District, Chairperson.

PURPOSE: The Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee shall review the general principles of sound retirement planning in view of recent changes in state and federal laws.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

Introduced by Scofield, 49th District; Landis, 46th District; Smith, 33rd District; Marsh, 29th District; Barrett, 39th District; Chambers, 11th District; Morehead, 30th District; Nelson, 35th District; V. Johnson, 8th District.

WHEREAS, there is an increasing national awareness of the need to address government policies and programs that affect children;

WHEREAS, government policies and programs that affect children have been implemented on an ad hoc basis, without clear, purposeful, overall design;

WHEREAS, children are now by a wide margin the most impoverished age group in the nation.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SECOND SESSION OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE:

1. That the Executive Board establish a select interim committee on Children's Programs;
2. That staff resources to the select committee be coordinated by the Legislative Research Division;
3. That the select committee inventory federal and state government policies and programs in Nebraska that deal with the concerns and needs of children;
4. That the select committee develop public policy options and strategies for addressing the needs of children; and
5. That the select committee report its findings and recommendations to the next regular session of the Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislature.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 400.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, the State of Nebraska and its several governmental sub-divisions are jointly charged with the responsibility for the provision of Human Services, including mental retardation, mental health, substance abuse, aging, public assistance, and general health services;

WHEREAS, the traditional roles and responsibilities of state and local government in the delivery and funding of Human Services have been affected by the state assumption of the cost of medicaid, the Gramm-Rudman Act, changes in the federal block grant system, and other governmental acts;

WHEREAS, the proper relationship and respective administrative and funding responsibilities of each level of government have been a subject of ongoing discussion and debate;

WHEREAS, the state of Nebraska needs to establish a workable public policy delineating the appropriate roles and responsibilities of each level of government and the provision of these important services;

WHEREAS, it would be beneficial to make the roles and responsibilities of state government more uniform among the various services.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Executive Board establish a Select Committee to conduct a study of the federal, state, and local relationship for the funding of/and responsibility for the following Human Service Delivery Systems:

b. The relationship of the Department of Health with local health departments.

c. The relationship of the Department of Aging with local area agencies on aging.

d. The relationship of the Department of Social Services with local human service and public assistance programs.

3. That the Select Committee receive staff support from the Legislative Research Division and from such other sources as determined by the Executive Board;

4. That the Select Committee report to the next session of the Legislature on its findings and recommendations.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 401.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, there are an estimated 107,000 persons in the state of Nebraska without health insurance;

WHEREAS, the health care for persons not eligible for coverage by government programs is disproportionately provided by a select number of health care providers;

WHEREAS, the historical practice has been for these select providers to shift the cost of care for the medically indigent to private paying patients;

WHEREAS, the development of prospective payment systems by both the government and private sectors have made it increasingly difficult to shift the cost of care for the medically indigent;

WHEREAS, the current county programs for the poor have insufficient resources to provide adequate health care coverage for the poor;

WHEREAS, the medically indigent citizens of Nebraska may be refused medical care in the future;

WHEREAS, there is a need to study the current funding mechanism and system for providing medical care to the medically indigent and to examine potential changes in the current system in order to provide medical care to persons in need and on a competitive basis between health care providers.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Executive Board establish a Select Committee to conduct a study of the care for the medically indigent in Nebraska, the need to alter the current system of providing medical services to the medically indigent in order to create a competitive health care system, the potential for expanding other assistance programs in order to make health care available to the medically indigent, the potential for requiring pooling of funds or mandated care in order to assure access to the health care system by medically indigent and any other aspect of the medically indigent issue it deems appropriate;

2. That at least three members of the Select Committee be chosen from the Health and Welfare Committee;

3. That the Select Committee receive staff support from the Legislative Research Division and from such other sources as determined by the Executive Board;

4. That the Select Committee report to the next session of the Legislature on its findings and recommendations.

Introduced by Education Committee: Vickers, 38th District, Chairperson; Baack, 47th District; Barrett, 39th District; Eret, 32nd District; R. Johnson, 34th District; Lamb, 43rd District; Morehead, 30th District; Nelson, 35th District; and Hartnett, 45th District; Beyer, 3rd District.

Purpose: To study certain aspects of school bus transportation and safety. Nebraska school districts last year expended over $33 million in support of pupil transportation including provision of transportation to and from schools as required by law and provision of transportation for activities, which is authorized by law.

Nebraska regulations and statutes currently provide safety measures for school transportation including licensing of school bus drivers and inspection of school vehicles. Notwithstanding such measures statistics show an increase in accidents and injury in the recent years. There is a need to address the adequacy of current safety procedures and to examine possible changes in the law.

The study should also examine the costs school districts incur in providing transportation services, including as assessment of the impacts of federal Department of Transportation requirements and recent changes in Nebraska laws for special education transportation. Further, the study should examine the adequacy of current state aid to school districts for transportation.

Now, therefore be it resolved, that:

1. The Education Committee conduct a study to examine all issues relating to school transportation; and
2. That the Committee report recommendations or findings to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Introduced by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee: Peterson, 21st District; Rogers, 41st District.

PURPOSE: The Legislature of Nebraska realizes that the National Guard of this state has a dual role. In its state role, the National Guard must be equipped and trained to meet the requirements of Nebraska in times of emergency or disaster. In its federal role, the National Guard must be equipped and trained for employment in combat situations in the defense of the United States of America and its allies. The Legislature recognizes that the National Guard may be subject to periodic inspections by agencies of the federal government, however there is, from time to time, the need for the Legislature to evaluate the Military Department as a state agency. The units of the Nebraska National Guard, the officers and enlisted members have a long established reputation of duty, honor and service. In order to insure that such tradition continues, the Legislature shall review, study and evaluate the following areas, but not necessarily limit itself to the following:

1. The tuition benefit program provided to members of the Nebraska National Guard.
 - A. Cost of this program to the taxpayers
 - B. Number of personnel taking advantage of the program, by rank, residence and level of education.
 - C. Number of graduates that remain in Nebraska after graduation, hence, the long term value to the state and the taxpayers.
 - D. A comparison to similar programs offered in other states.
2. Contracting Procedures involving state funds.
3. Misuse of aircraft and government vehicles.
4. Full-time personnel engaged in a second job on government time or selling to subordinates.
5. Rigid adherence to Equal Opportunity requirements in employment, promotion and assignment of personnel.
6. Proper accounting for all state funds, and any indications of fraud, waste or abuse.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purpose of this resolution.
2. That upon completion of the study the committee shall report on its findings including any recommendations for needed legislation, to the Legislature or Legislative Council.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 404.

Introduced by Agriculture and Environment Committee,
R. Johnson, 34th District, Chairperson.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this study is to examine recent trends and developments;

1. in state and federal responses to all aspects of current and future problems in agriculture;
2. in state, local and federal responses to all aspects of current and future problems in maintaining or improving the quality and/or quantity of Nebraska's air, water and soil.

After an initial review by the committee, the study will focus on a select number of potential changes in Nebraska policy or law which would enhance the future of the state's environmental quality and its agricultural well-being.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION.

1. That the Agriculture and Environment Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 405.

Introduced by R. Johnson, 34th District; Chizek, 31st District; Scofield, 49th District; Warner, 25th District; Sieck, 24th District; Vickers, 38th District; Pirsch, 10th District; Schmit, 23rd District.

PURPOSE: Recognizing Nebraska's commitment to maintaining its generally high quality of water and the Department of Environmental Control's declaration that an emergency and remedial response fund is the most apparent deficiency in the state's water quality legislation, the purpose of this interim study shall be to document the need and determine what provisions shall be included in a Nebraska "Superfund" or a comprehensive environmental response and liability act. In order to accomplish this purpose the study may include, but not be limited to, the following matters:

1. The nature and extent of pollutants and hazardous chemical contamination occurring in the state and the financing of state programs to protect ground water quality;
2. The provisions, administration and impact of the federal Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act and court cases pertaining to it;

3. The provisions, administration and impact of various state superfund laws and court cases pertaining to them. Such study would include issues such as liability standards, funding, victim compensation, liability of response action contractors, limitations on damages, cleanup standards, the effect on community right-to-know laws, retroactivity of such liability, etc.

4. The availability, cost and provisions of liability insurance for environmental impairment;

5. The status of federal superfund sites in Nebraska;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION.

1. That the Select Committee shall consist of those Senators who served on the 1985 Select Committee on LR 196 and any replacements thereto. That the prior Chairman will continue in that capacity and that a new Vice Chairmen will be appointed to fill a vacancy.

2. That the Select Committee receive staff support from other sources as determined by the Executive Board.

3. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 406.

Introduced by Warner, 25th District.

WHEREAS, in 1985 the Nebraska Supreme Court held that that Commission of Industrial Relations has authority to determine wages and other economic terms and conditions of employment for state employees;

WHEREAS, consequently these items are negotiable between state employees and state agencies;

WHEREAS, before the state implements this decision and begins collective bargaining with state employees on these items, the existing collective bargaining structure and time frame and legislative involvement therein should be examined; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has in LB 1251 appropriated funds for an independent consultant to be hired by the Department of Personnel to provide to the Governor and the chairpersons of the Appropriations and Business and Labor Committees recommendations on this subject.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That a select committee comprised of the members of the Appropriations and Business and Labor Committees is hereby created and authorized to conduct a public hearing on the consultant's report in order to receive public testimony and comments to aid in formulating and drafting any legislation relating to collective bargaining by state employees for introduction in the 1987 Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 407.

Introduced by Hall, 7th District; Lynch, 13th District.

WHEREAS, the State of Nebraska has undertaken to provide a specialized service system to persons with mental retardation; and

WHEREAS, six regional governing boards operating independently are responsible for providing community-based mental retardation services; and

WHEREAS, the specialized system has moved from one based upon institutionalization twenty years ago to one predominantly based upon community services today; and

WHEREAS, there are currently a number of persons who are eligible for specialized adult services but who are not receiving them; and

WHEREAS, persons with developmental disabilities other than mental retardation who often have similar needs for services and who could similarly benefit from services are not eligible to receive such services; and

WHEREAS, there is no single agency with ultimate responsibility for the services provided to persons with mental retardation, although the Department of Public Institutions, the Department of Social Services, the Department of Health, and the State Department of Education have varying degrees of involvement with services to persons with mental retardation; and

WHEREAS, there are disparities of services, costs, and numbers within various systems across the state which result in annual budget difficulties.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Executive Board of the Legislative Council establish a Select Committee to conduct a study of the Nebraska mental retardation service system.

2. That the members of the Select Committee be chosen from legislative members who have prior experience and have expressed particular interest in the mental retardation system.

3. That the Select Committee consider the role of the state with regard to providing services for its developmentally disabled citizens, mechanisms for funding the system, the role and authority of the regional governing boards, the respective roles of institutional and community-based services and relationships between the two, the relationship of special education programs to available adult services, and any other aspect of service provision for people with developmental disabilities it deems appropriate.

4. That the Select Committee receive staff support from the Legislative Research Division and from other sources as determined by the Executive Board.

5. That the Select Committee report to the next session of the Legislature on its findings and recommendations.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 408.

Introduced by Business and Labor Committee: Barrett, 39th District, Chairperson; Chronister, 18th District; Eret, 32nd District; Hall, 7th District; Vickers, 38th District; Wesely, 26th District.

PURPOSE: The purpose of this study is to examine recent trends and general developments in the subject area of Workers' Compensation and further examine how major provisions of the current Nebraska Workers' Compensation Act compare to the laws of the other states. After an initial review by the committee, the study should focus in greater detail on a selected number of possible changes in the Nebraska law which would enhance the efficient and expeditious delivery of benefits and services to workers and restrain the costs to employers.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Business and Labor Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the Business and Labor Committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 409.

Introduced by Judiciary Committee: Chizek, 31st District; Conway, 17th District; and Chronister, 8th District; Hall, 7th District.

Purpose: The purpose of this study proposed is to examine the Nebraska Jail Standards statutes and any related topics.

The Executive Board is hereby directed by the members of the 89th Legislature of Nebraska, Second Session to conduct this study. It shall be accomplished in the following manner:

1) The Executive Board shall establish a Select Committee to conduct the study.

2) At least one member of the Judiciary Committee and one member of the Government Committee shall be on the Select Committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86040

March 27, 1986

To: Holly Jensen, Director, Department of Motor Vehicles

Subject: Recognition of Tribal License Plates

QUESTION: Does the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles have the authority to enter into a reciprocal agreement with the Oglala Sioux Indian Tribal Council by which she would recognize transportation ordinances adopted by the Tribal Council which provide for registration of motor vehicles?

CONCLUSION: No.

The Oglala Sioux Indian Tribe (hereinafter "Tribe") has adopted Tribal Council Ordinance No. 85-04 which regulates registration of motor vehicles "operated or driven upon the public highways of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation." Tribal Council Ordinance No. 85-04, §3-2. The Tribe apparently has prepared tribal license plates, pursuant to Tribal Council Ordinance No. 85-04, and has made arrangements to begin issuing said license plates. The Tribe requests that you, as the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, enter into a reciprocal agreement with said Tribe whereby you would recognize tribal license plates.

The physical location of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation is crucial to a full examination of the extent of the authority to enter into such an agreement. The Pine Ridge Indian Reservation is predominantly located within the territorial bounds of the State of South Dakota. However, a very small portion of the reservation extends within the boundaries of the State of Nebraska.

The jurisdiction of the States of Nebraska and South Dakota over matters occurring on the reservation additionally must be closely examined. In 1953, Congress enacted Public Law 280, which delegated jurisdiction over criminal and civil matters arising within Indian country located within the specified states to the State of Nebraska and four other states (not including South Dakota). As stated in a prior Opinion of our office found at 48 Op.Att'y Gen. 2 (1985):

It has generally been held, however, that this Public Law 280 grant of jurisdiction extended only to matters over which the federal government had earlier had authority and that it was not meant to detract from tribal jurisdiction as it existed. Therefore, it is "probable that this jurisdiction of the tribes remains concurrent with the states in Indian country subject to Public Law 280 to the same extent it was concurrent with the federal government prior to the Act." F. Cohen, Handbood of Federal Indian Law 367 (1982 ed.).

In this regard, we note that licensing and registration of motor vehicles has always been and continues to be a function of state government rather than the federal government. Thus, the State of Nebraska has control over and responsibility for civil matters, including motor vehicle registration, which arise on that portion of the Pine Ridge Reservation which extends into the State of Nebraska.

It is our understanding that the large portion of the Pine Ridge Reservation, which is located within the boundaries of the State of South Dakota, is "Indian Country." For most purposes, the reservation, therefore, operates under federal and tribal law. However, it is also our understanding that in 1960, the State of South Dakota assumed jurisdiction over the roads and highways of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

With that background information in mind, we turn to the question of whether the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles (hereinafter Director) has the authority to enter into an agreement whereby tribal license plates would be recognized by the State of Nebraska. Neb.Rev.Stat. §60-305.01 (Reissue 1984) provides as follows:

(1) A nonresident owner, owning any foreign vehicle which has been properly registered in the state, country, or other place of which the owner is a resident, and which at all times, when operated in this state, has displayed upon it the number plate or plates issued for such vehicle in the place of residence of such owner, may operate or permit the operation of such vehicle within the state without registering such vehicle or paying any fees to this state.

Section 60-305.01 does not authorize the Director to enter into a reciprocal agreement within the Tribe. First, §60-305.01 does not contain any language which empowers the Director to enter into written reciprocity agreements.

Second, §60-305.01 applies to nonresident owners. Anyone who may reside on that portion of the reservation which extends into the State of Nebraska is a resident of this State and would not fall within the purview of §60-305.01. Anyone who resides on that portion of the reservation which is located in the State of South Dakota would be a resident of the State of South Dakota and a nonresident of the State of Nebraska. However, §60-305.01 additionally requires that any vehicles recognized by the State of Nebraska are properly registered in the state in which the owner is a resident. It is our understanding that the State of South Dakota does not and will not recognize the tribal license plates. South Dakota residents who register their vehicles with tribal license plates have not properly registered their vehicles in the State of South Dakota.

The authority of a South Dakota resident to operate a motor vehicle in the State of Nebraska is based upon proper registration within the State of South Dakota. Recognition by the Director of tribal license plates not only is beyond the authority granted by statute, but as a practical matter said recognition would do nothing but exacerbate the problems between the State of South Dakota and the Tribe with regard to registering motor vehicles.

The conclusion reached in this Opinion is similar to that found in Queets Band of Indians v. State of Washington, 102 W.2d 1, 682 P.2d 909 (1984) (en banc). In Queets Band, supra, the Supreme Court of Washington, en banc, held that Indian tribes are not entitled to reciprocal registration of vehicles. The statutes of the State of Washington provided as follows:

§46.85.080--On and after July 1, 1963, if no agreement, arrangement or declaration is in effect with respect to another jurisdiction as authorized by this chapter, any vehicle properly registered or licensed in such other jurisdiction and for which evidence of compliance is supplied shall receive, when operated in this state, the same exemptions, benefits and privileges granted by such other jurisdiction to vehicles properly registered in this state.

§46.85.020(2)--"Jurisdiction" means and includes a state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, a foreign country, and a state or province of a foreign country.

The court rejected the argument that the Indian tribe was a "territory or possession of the United States," and found that had the Legislature intended to include Indian tribes within the scope of the statute, it could have done so. Similarly, had the Legislature of the State of Nebraska intended that tribal license plates be recognized by the State, it could have so provided.

For each of the above reasons, the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles does not have the authority to enter into an agreement with the Oglala Sioux Indian Tribal Council by which agreement tribal plates would be recognized by the State of Nebraska.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Introduced by Harris, 27th District; Schmit, 23rd District; Miller, 37th District; Rogers, 41st District; Rupp, 22nd District; Vickers, 38th District; R. Johnson, 34th District.

WHEREAS, current U.S. monetary policy, U.S. trade, import and export policy and domestic U.S. farm policy are an experiment with questionable and predictably damaging economic consequences for the Midwest and the State of Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, Nebraska's agricultural production and agribusiness economic sectors as well as the state's overall tax base are highly vulnerable to the failure of the new market-oriented farm program to succeed in its goals of increasing U.S. agricultural exports or net farm income.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, that it is appropriate for Nebraska's Congressional representatives to conduct hearings in the State of Nebraska that will evaluate the progress of the new farm bill toward achieving a greater volume of U.S. agricultural exports and a greater market share for the U.S. in world export markets. Furthermore, the Nebraska Legislature requests that such hearings focus on commerce and the balance of trade between the U.S. and other countries and the trends that are emerging relative to imports, exports and their overall short, intermediate and long term impact on Nebraska's economy.

Laid over.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 411.

Introduced by McFarland, 28th District.

WHEREAS, the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-65 celebrated its 100th anniversary year in 1985; and

WHEREAS, the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-65 received a federal charter on December 9, 1985 by the enactment of P.L. 99-172 by the United States Congress; and

WHEREAS, this accomplishment deserves the recognition of the Nebraska Legislature.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Legislature acknowledges the efforts and achievements of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-65, both past and present members and their forebears.

4 8-157. (1) No bank shall maintain any branch
5 bank and, except as provided in subsections (2) to (11)
6 of this section and section 8-122.01, the general
7 business of every bank shall be transacted at the place
8 of business specified in its charter.

9 (2) With the approval of the director (a) any
10 bank may maintain an attached auxiliary office if such
11 office is physically connected by a pneumatic tube or
12 tubes or a walkway, tunnel, or any other electronic,
13 mechanical, or structural connection or attachment for
14 the public use of the bank and is within two hundred
15 feet of the building containing the premises specified
16 as its place of business in its charter or any adjacent
17 connected building housing a continuation of the 18 operations of the bank's main office and is not within
19 three hundred feet of another bank or another bank's
20 auxiliary or detached office and (b) any bank may
21 establish and maintain commencing (i) in 1983 not more
1 than three detached auxiliary offices, (ii) in 1984 not
2 more than four detached auxiliary offices, and (iii) in
3 1985 and thereafter not more than five detached
4 auxiliary offices at which all banking transactions
5 allowed by law may be made. Such auxiliary offices
6 shall be within the corporate limits of the city in 7 which such bank is located. Any bank that establishes
8 and maintains two or more auxiliary offices shall locate
9 one of such offices within three miles of the premises
10 specified as its place of business in its charter. No
11 auxiliary office shall be located within three hundred 12 feet of another bank or within fifty feet of another
13 auxiliary office. Any detached auxiliary office
14 established and maintained by a bank pursuant to the 15 acquisition or merger of an institution under sections
16 8-1506 to 8-1510 shall not count against the number or 17 location of detached auxiliary offices permitted under 18 this section.

19 (3) With the approval of the director, a bank
20 may acquire another bank in Nebraska as the result of a
21 purchase or merger so long as the acquired bank has been 22 chartered for more than ~~five~~ three years and the 23 acquired institution and its detached auxiliary offices
24 are converted to auxiliary offices of the acquiring 1 bank. Such auxiliary offices shall not count against
2 the number of locations of detached auxiliary offices

3 permitted under subsections (1) and (2) of this section.

4 (4) The name given to any detached bank or
5 branch bank established and maintained pursuant to this
6 section shall not be substantially similar to the name
7 of any existing bank or branch bank which is
8 unaffiliated with the newly created bank or branch bank
9 and is located in the same municipality. The name of
10 such newly created bank or branch bank shall be approved
11 by the director.

12 (5) With the approval of the director, any
13 bank or banks may establish and maintain any number of 14 electronic satellite facilities or manned electronic
15 satellite facilities at which all banking transactions,
16 defined as receiving deposits of every kind and nature
17 and crediting such to customer accounts, cashing checks
18 and cash withdrawals, transfer of funds from checking
19 accounts to savings accounts, transfer of funds from
20 savings accounts to checking accounts, transfer of funds
21 from either checking accounts and savings accounts to
22 accounts of other customers, payment transfers from
23 customer accounts into accounts maintained by other bank
24 customers or the bank, including preauthorized draft
1 authority, preauthorized loans, and credit transactions,
2 receiving payments payable at the bank or otherwise, and
3 such other transactions that the Director of Banking and
4 Finance upon application, notice, and hearing may
5 approve, may be conducted. Such electronic satellite
6 facilities or manned electronic satellite facilities may
7 be established only by a bank as defined in subdivision
8 (4) of section 8-101 or by a national banking
9 association whose main chartered office is located in
10 the State of Nebraska. Neither such electronic
11 satellite facilities, the manned electronic satellite
12 facilities, nor the transactions conducted thereat shall
13 be construed as the establishment of a branch bank or as
14 branch banking. Such facilities shall be available on a
15 nondiscriminating basis for use by customers of any
16 other bank becoming a user bank. It shall not be deemed
17 discrimination if a facility does not offer the same
18 transaction services as other facilities.

19 Any bank may become a user bank by agreeing to 20 pay the establishing bank its transaction fees. Such
21 agreement may be implied by the use of such facilities.
22 Nothing in this subsection shall prohibit a user bank
23 from agreeing to responsibilities and benefits which

24 might be contained in a standardized agreement. The
1 establishing bank shall file with the director the
2 information necessary to originate a transaction at any
3 facility. Such information shall contain a means of
4 designating the bank or processor to which such
5 transactions shall be switched and shall also contain
6 information adequate to perform authorization of cash
7 withdrawal and other transactions authorized by this
8 section. The director shall make such information
9 available to any other bank desiring to become a user
10 bank. The establishing bank shall be responsible for
11 transmitting transactions originating from its facility
12 to a switch, but nothing contained in this section may
13 be construed to provide that any inhouse or auxiliary
14 office premises transactions shall be required to go
15 through a switch. The director shall refuse to approve
16 the establishment of any electronic satellite facilities
17 or manned electronic satellite facilities unless such
18 facilities will be available on a nondiscriminating
19 basis through methods, fees, and processes that the
20 establishing bank has provided for switching
21 transactions. Once approval is given for the facility
22 of an establishing bank, the director, upon notice and
23 after a hearing, may revoke the approval for the 24 facility or may suspend the use of such facility if he
1 or she determines that it is not available on a
2 nondiscriminating basis, that the necessary information
3 is not on file with the director, or that transactions
4 originated by customers of user banks are not being
5 switched to processing centers. Nothing in this section
6 may be construed to prohibit nonbank employees from
7 assisting in transactions originated at the facilities,
8 and such assistance shall not be deemed to be engaging
9 in the business of banking. Such nonbank employees may
10 be trained in the use of the facilities by bank
11 employees.

12 (6) An establishing bank shall not be deemed
13 to make a facility available on a nondiscriminating
14 basis if, through personnel services offered,
15 advertising on or off the facility premises, or
16 otherwise, it discriminates in the use of the facility
17 against any user bank.

18 (7) Off-premises electronic satellite
19 facilities and manned electronic satellite facilities
20 may be established and maintained by a bank or by a

21 group of two or more banks or a combination of a bank or
22 banks and a third party. No one, through personnel
23 services offered, advertising on or off the facility
24 premises, or otherwise, may discriminate in the use of
1 the facility against any other user bank desiring to use
2 the services of the facility.

3 (8) It is an intent of this section that this
4 section shall apply to banks chartered by the State of
5 Nebraska and all national banking associations whose
6 main chartered offices are located in the State of
7 Nebraska and that there be an equal opportunity to all
8 Nebraska banks for the use of and access to a switch and
9 that no discrimination shall exist or preferential
10 treatment be given in either the operation of such
11 switch or the charges for use thereof. The operation of
12 such switch shall be with the approval of the Director
13 of Banking and Finance. Approval of such switch shall 14 be given by the Director of Banking and Finance when he
15 or she shall determine that its design and operation are 16 such as to provide access thereto and use thereof by any
17 Nebraska bank without discrimination as to access or
18 cost of its use.

19 (9) If the director, upon notice and hearing,
20 determines at any time that the design or operation of a
21 switch or provision for use thereof does discriminate
22 against any bank in providing access thereto and use
23 thereof either through access thereto or by virtue of
24 the cost of its use, he or she may revoke his or her
1 approval of such switch operation and ~~forthwith~~
2 immediately order the discontinuance of the operation of 3 such switch.

4 (10) If it shall be determined by the Director
5 of Banking and Finance, after notice and hearing, that 6 discrimination against any bank has taken place, or that 7 one bank has been preferred over another, or that any 8 bank or person has not complied with any of the 9 provisions of this section, he or she shall ~~forthwith~~
10 immediately issue a cease and desist order or an order
11 for compliance within ten days from the date of the 12 order and upon noncompliance with such order, the 13 offending bank shall become ineligible to receive and 14 hold any deposits of any nature of the State of Nebraska
15 or any of its political ~~subdivision~~ ~~thereof~~
16 subdivisions.

17 (11) ~~The provisions of section~~ Section 8-101

18 and this section shall apply to banks and their 19 activities only. Nothing in such sections may be 20 construed to provide any authority for any nonbank
21 institution to engage in any of the banking transactions
22 enumerated in this section. When reference is made in 23 this section to activities by third parties, such 24 activities shall be limited to the ownership, operation,
1 and maintenance of electronic satellite facilities.

2 (12) Nothing in this section shall prohibit
3 ordinary clearinghouse transactions between banks.”.

4 2. On page 5, line 13, strike “is” and insert
5 “and section 8-157, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1985, 6 are”.

7 3. Renumber the remaining section

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 86041
March 31, 1986

To: Senator Don Wesely

Subject: Proposed Amendments in LB 924 Sec. 3 to Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-2017.02 (Supp. 1984)

In regard to proposed amendments in LB 924 Sec. 3, you have asked what is the legal distinction between "approving" unlicensed persons to administer medications and "certifying" them to do so. We have concluded there is very little distinction, as discussed below, but some clarification and consistency with other statutes may result from using "approved."

One proposed amendment would change the authority of the Department of Health to make regulations. Instead of setting requirements for "certification" of certain unlicensed staff to administer medications in named health care facilities and providing for denial or revocation of such certification as now provided in Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-2017.02 (Supp. 1984), the department would be authorized to make rules and regulations requiring "approval" of them to do so and providing for denial of such approval. Another amendment would change the exemption allowing unlicensed persons in such facilities to administer medications from those "certified" by the Department of Health to those "approved by the facility" and by the Department of Health.

The present statute does not define "certification" and the proposed amendment does not define "approved". In such cases we look to the usual and ordinary meaning of those terms. See, Garcia v. City of Omaha, 215 Neb. 714, 340 N.W.2d 409 (1983).

The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language defines "approved" as: "To confirm or consent to officially; to sanction; ratify." It defines "certify" as: "To confirm formally as true, accurate, or genuine; to testify to or vouch for in writing." In Ashby v. Peters, 128 Neb. 338, 349, 258 N.W. 639, 644 (1935), the court defines "approved" to mean: "{T}o sanction officially, to regard as good, to commend."

Thus there is very little to distinguish the two terms except the requirement that the certification be in writing. Where the approval is to be given by a state agency, administrative procedures already require that it be in writing. Thus, in fact, that distinction is also one without a difference. One possible distinction may arise in the health care industry because of the connotation that certification is made by the federal government for participation in the medicare and medicaid programs while licensure is made by the state.

The critical fact both under the present statute and the proposed amendments is that a line is being drawn between those who may administer medications and those who may not. The Legislature has already determined that the administration of medications is an occupation which the state may regulate to promote the health, safety, morals or general welfare of the public. See, Nelson v. Tilley, 137 Neb. 327, 337, 289 N.W. 388 (1939), for a discussion of its authority to do so. See, statutes authorizing the administration of medications by certain licensed health care practitioners and by Care Staff Members as evidence that it has done so.

In conclusion, whether the Legislature requires unlicensed persons to be "certified" or "approved" by the Department of Health before they can administer medications is a distinction without a difference. However, because certification may connote federal involvement to health care providers, use of approved may clarify that this is consent from the state to administer medications. Approve is also the term used with respect to Care Staff Members, another class of unlicensed persons who may administer medications. Thus, use of a similar term here may promote clarity.

Of greater concern are potential constitutional problems from the proposed amendments to delete the right to revoke approval, if given, and to delegate approval functions to a private entity. A continuing problem is the omission of statutory guidelines for qualifications needed for certification or approval. However, a discussion of those problems is beyond the scope of this opinion.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. SPIRE

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Pappas asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 983 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

(Amendment printed separate from the Journal and on file in the Clerk's Office - Room 1102 - AM2815.)

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

April 2, 1986

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 778 without my signature and with my objections.

LB 778 would give the Natural Resources Commission the power to appoint the Executive Director of the Natural Resources Commission. Under current law, the Governor makes that appointment with the recommendation of the Commission. The bill would also give the Natural Resources Commission the power to override, with a majority of Commission members votes, the Director's recommendation regarding approval or rejection of funding for proposed Resources Development Fund programs or projects. Present statute requires a unanimous vote of Commission members to override his recommendation.

The reasons for my veto decision are as follows:

1. I have heard the argument that water policy requires long-term planning which is interrupted when new Governors are elected. This argument is only convincing if you trust the bureaucracy more than democracy. It is the same argument heard when professional staff says: "Life would be a lot easier if you didn't have all these elections to louse up our programs." The people have elected us to set policy. They do not want us to surrender control of that policy to non-elected individuals.

2. LB 778 undoes, without a fair test, one of the key elements of LB 1106 (1984). That bill went into effect on February 15, 1985, and Dayle Williamson was not appointed as Director of Natural Resources until early April of that year. What was true at the time of the passage of LB 1106 is still true - the people of the state are entitled to the accountability of the Governor's office on state water policy and on how state tax dollars are invested in water resources projects.

3. The bill destroys the necessary balance on the Water Management Board. By present law, there are three agency members of the Water Management Board and two other appointed members. Even now, only one of the agency members is appointed by the Governor. By virtue of LB 778, none of them will be accountable to the Governor. The Chairman and the staff for the Board will be subject only to the direction of the Natural Resources Commission. This will almost certainly narrow and limit the ability of the Water Management Board to carry out its functions.

4. LB 778 eliminates the safeguards built into the Resources Development Fund to prevent pork barreling. When passed in 1974, the Resources Development Fund legislation established a state agency advisory board to determine the feasibility of Resource Development Fund project proposals. The Natural Resources Commission was able to overrule that eight agency board only by unanimous vote. That procedure was utilized until 1985 when, by virtue of LB 1106, the Director of Natural Resources (appointed by the Governor) was assigned the responsibility for determining project feasibility. Now the director decides whether a project is in fact technically, economically, and environmentally feasible. If it is, the NRC determines funding levels and sets priorities. If the project is not feasible, NRC cannot fund it without overriding the Director by unanimous vote. However, under LB 778, these safeguards are destroyed in two ways. First, the Director may, if the veto on LB 778 is overridden, be less willing to make objective but unpopular findings on proposed projects, particularly those sponsored by NRDs. Secondly, LB 778 allows NRC overrides on feasibility determinations by simple majority action. The temptation and opportunity for pork barreling will be great.

5. LB 778 will make even more difficult future consideration of the need for agency reorganization and/or consolidation. At present, the Directors of the Departments of Health, Water Resources, Environmental Control and Natural Resources are all appointees of the Governor. With the support of the Governor, they are free to work toward better interagency cooperation and, if necessary, agency reorganization. With LB 778, the Executive Director of the Natural Resources Commission will certainly have to actively oppose any future consolidation efforts.

Please consider these factors during your deliberations on LB 778. I urge you to sustain my veto.

Sincerely,
(Signed) ROBERT KERREY
Governor

Messrs. Schmit and Vickers offered the following amendment:
AM2328

- 1 1. Insert the following new section:
- 2 "Sec. 3. That section 46-289, Reissue Revised
- 3 Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as
- 4 follows:
- 5 46-289. The Legislature finds, recognizes,
- 6 and declares that the transfer of water to outside the
- 7 boundaries of a river basin may have impacts on the
- 8 water and other resources in the basin and that such
- 9 impacts differ from those caused by uses of water within
- 10 the same basin in part because any unused water will not
- 11 be returned to the stream from which it is taken for
- 12 further use in that river basin. The Legislature
- 13 therefore recognizes the need to delineate factors for
- 14 consideration by the Director of Water Resources when
- 15 evaluating an application made pursuant to section

16 46-233 which involves an interbasin transfer of water in 17 order to determine whether denial of such application is 18 demanded by the public interest. Those considerations
19 shall include, but not be limited to, the following
20 factors:

21 (1) The economic, environmental, and other
1 benefits of the proposed interbasin transfer and use;

2 (2) Any adverse impacts of the proposed
3 interbasin transfer and use;

4 (3) Any current beneficial uses being made of 5 the unappropriated water in the basin of origin;

6 (4) Any reasonably foreseeable future
7 beneficial uses of the water in the basin of origin;

8 (5) The economic, environmental, and other
9 benefits of leaving the water in the basin of origin for 10 current or future beneficial uses;

11 (6) Alternative sources of water supply
12 available to the applicant; and

13 (7) Alternative sources of water available to 14 the basin of origin for future beneficial uses.

15 ~~The application shall be denied if the~~
16 ~~benefits to the state from granting the application do~~
17 ~~not outweigh the benefits to the state from denying the~~ 18 ~~application.~~

19 The application shall be deemed in the public
20 interest if the overall benefits to the state and the 21 applicant's basin are greater than or equal to the 22 adverse impacts to the state and the basin of origin.

23 The director's order granting or denying an application
24 shall specify the reasons for such action, including a
1 discussion of the required factors for consideration,
2 and shall document such decision by reference to the 3 hearing record, if any, and to any other sources used by 4 the director in making the decision."

7 or which is owned or leased, or in which there is a
8 legal or beneficial interest in title directly or 9 indirectly owned, acquired, or obtained by a corporation
10 or syndicate, so long as such land or other interest in 11 title shall be held in continuous ownership or under 12 continuous lease by the same such corporation or

20 business operation, but pending the development of such 21 agricultural land for nonfarm or nonranch purposes, not 22 to exceed a period of five years, such land may not be

7 it shall have fifty years, if the ownership of the 8 majority of the stock of such corporation continues to 9 be held by persons related to one another within the 10 fourth degree of kindred or their spouses, and their 11 landholdings are not increased, to either re-qualify as 12 a family farm corporation or dissolve and return to 13 personal ownership.

14 The Secretary of State shall monitor corporate 15 and syndicate agricultural land purchases and corporate 16 and syndicate farming and ranching operations, and 17 notify the Attorney General of any possible violations.

9 law, further restrictions prohibiting certain
10 agricultural operations that the legislature deems 11 contrary to the intent of this section.”.

Opinion No. 86044
April 4, 1986

To: Senator Rex Haberman

Subject: Constitutionality of LBs 516, 529, 153 and Amendment to LB 122

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of several bills currently pending before the Legislature. Initially, you ask whether either LBs 516, 529, or 153, in their present forms, would violate the requirement of Article III, Section 14 of the Nebraska Constitution, that the subject of a bill “shall be clearly expressed in the title”.

It is well-established that a court will not hold legislation in violation of the title provision of Article III, Section 14 if the title calls attention to the subject matter of the bill, and the portion of the bill challenged is germane to the purpose announced in the title. Blackledge v. Richards, 194 Neb. 188, 192, 231 N.W.2d 319, 323 (1975). The Nebraska Supreme Court has adopted a very liberal construction with respect to this constitutional requirement. For example, in Spier v. Thomas, 131 Neb. 579, 269 N.W. 61 (1936), the Court held a title providing for “An act relating to municipal courts” was sufficient to permit the inclusion of a section providing for the eligibility of judges of such courts.

The title to LB 516 expresses the bill relates “to courts”; that it amends Neb.Rev.Stat. §§25-1062.01, 25-1064, and 43-2,125 (Reissue 1979 and Reissue 1984); and, in addition, that the bill proposes “to change provisions relating to judicial vacancies”, and “to authorize temporary restraining orders without notice as prescribed”. You have requested us to consider whether the provisions of LB 516 regarding amending certain statutory provisions relating to temporary restraining orders, and the designation of district or county court judges to serve upon the absence of separate juvenile court judges, are in conformance with the title requirement of Article III, Section 14.

Sections 10 through 13 of LB 516, which provide for the amendment of §§25-1062.01 and 25-1064 pertaining to the issuance of temporary restraining orders and injunctive relief, are germane to the subject matter announced in the title. Section 15, which provides for the amendment of §43-2,125 relating to the appointment of a district or county court judge to serve during the absence of a separate juvenile court judge, is also within the subject matter, and is germane to the purpose announced in the title. Accordingly, we do not believe these provisions of LB 516 violate the title provision of Article III, Section 14.

You have also requested us to consider whether either LB 529 or LB 153 violate the title requirement of Article III, Section 14. Your request does not address which specific provisions of either bill you believe may fail to satisfy this requirement. Nevertheless, we have reviewed the contents of both bills, and, in our opinion, the provisions of each bill are sufficiently germane to the purpose announced in each of their respective titles so as to satisfy the title provision of Article III, Section 14.

Finally, you have requested our opinion as to the constitutionality of a proposed amendment to LB 122. Generally, LB 122 would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §39-6,181 (Reissue 1984), which relates to the issuance of certain special permits for the operation of motor vehicles exceeding maximum weight and length limitations. The proposed amendment to LB 122 would remove language providing for the granting of special permits for vehicles carrying "grain or other seasonally harvested products", and would instead limit this provision to vehicles carrying "sugar beets".

The principal constitutional issue raised by the proposed amendment to LB 122 is one of unreasonable classification. "A legislative classification will be upheld against constitutional attack if it bears some reasonable relationship to the legitimate purposes of the legislation." Pegasus of Omaha, Inc. v. State, 203 Neb. 755, 759, 280 N.W.2d 64, 67 (1979).

Upon examination of the proposed amendment to LB 122, we are unable to perceive any rational basis for limiting the granting of special permits to vehicles hauling only sugar beets under the conditions specified. There appears to be no reasonable basis for distinguishing between sugar beets and other harvested agricultural products in relation to the purpose of this legislation. Under these circumstances, it is our opinion that the proposed amendment to LB 122 would be held unconstitutional as establishing unreasonable class legislation, in violation of Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 86045
April 4, 1986

To: Senator Loran Schmit

Subject: Constitutionality of LB 835 -- Due Process and Article IV
Section 20 of the Nebraska Constitution

This is in response to your letter of March 31, 1986, in which you inquire about the constitutionality of LB 835 as amended by the adoption of AM 2536.

Your first concern deals with subsection 3 of section 3 of LB 835 as amended. This provision provides that the Public Service Commission shall hold a hearing for the review of local exchange rates if a complaint has been filed with the commission by the requisite number of subscribers within 60 days from the date of notice of the rate change. This provision requires that the commission shall "hold and complete a hearing" within 60 days after the filing of the petition, and further provides that "If the commission fails to enter any order within sixty days after the close of the hearing, the complaint shall be deemed denied and the rates and charges shall be deemed approved for all purposes including for purposes of appeal." Your specific question is whether "this severance of the customers' right to contest the rate increase because of the inaction of the Public Service Commission" is a violation of their rights to due process of law. We believe that it is.

The fundamental principle underlying the constitutional guarantee of due process of law is that "a party shall have his day in court." Brisbin v. E.L. Oliver Lodge No. 335, 134 Neb. 517 at 526, 279 N.W. 277 (1938). The indispensable elements of due process are a tribunal with jurisdiction, notice of a hearing to the proper parties, and an opportunity for a fair hearing according to applicable procedures. In Re Godden, 158 Neb. 246, 63 N.W.2d 151 (1954). A procedure which grants a party the right to be heard by a tribunal, and subsequently removes the authority of that tribunal to decide the issue because of the failure of that body to act within an arbitrary time limit, and furthermore automatically decides the issue in favor of the opposing party to the proceeding is most certainly a violation of due process of law and a failure to provide an opportunity for a fair hearing and the proper adjudication of the matter at issue.

"It is not enough that a person may have actually had notice and hearing; the statute must provide for it as a matter of right if a failure of due process is to be avoided." School District No. 8 of Sherman County v. State Board of Education, 176 Neb. 722 at 730, 127 N.W.2d 458 (1964). Here the statute would instead terminate that right through no fault of the party requesting the hearing.

Due process of law requires notice and an opportunity to be heard, as a matter of right and not by the let or leave of administrative officers or agencies, when the rights, duties, or privileges of interested parties are involved by an exercise of quasi-judicial power pursuant to the terms of a statute.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association v. Department of Banking, 187 Neb. 562 at 568, 192 N.W.2d 736 (1971), School District No. 8 of Sherman County v. State Board of Education, supra. This provision which terminates the right of one party to a decision on the issue by the designated tribunal, and in turn automatically decides the issue in favor of the other party, does not provide a fair hearing and does not meet fundamental due process requirements.

Arguably, the failure of the Public Service Commission to hold and complete a hearing within 60 days after the filing of the complaint, as required in the bill, would also have the same result of terminating the petitioners' right of due process. This being the case, the court would declare this provision unconstitutional as well, or in the alternative simply hold that this time requirement is only directory and not jurisdictional.

We should also point out that the rather limited period of time granted to the complainants to present their petition, 60 days from the date of the notice, and the limited period in which to prepare and present a case, within 60 days after filing, might also be construed as denials of due process. In the first case, because of the potential number of signatures required for a proper complaint under the bill, it may be extremely difficult if not impossible for the ratepayers to meet this narrow time constraint thus denying them the opportunity for a hearing on the matter. In addition, the short period of time in which to prepare for a hearing, particularly in view of the complex nature of a case involving telephone rates, the need to discover and analyze the information which is solely in the possession of the telephone company, and perhaps the need to employ experts to decipher this information, would also likely be construed as a denial of due process.

A fundamental requirement of due process is the right to be heard "meaningfully." Application of Cochrane, 434 F.Supp. 1207 (D.C. Nebr. 1977). If the complainants cannot present a proper case before the commission because of the extremely short time period in which a hearing is required to be held, or because of an inability to obtain and analyze in detail the necessary information in the possession of the telephone company in this time period, the complainants would not have the opportunity to be meaningfully heard in such a matter and thus would be denied their opportunity for a fair hearing and due process of law. This is true even though the initial burden of proof may be on the telephone company, since this initial showing by the company could possibly be overcome by a substantial showing on behalf of the complainants despite the tremendous advantages enjoyed by the phone companies in such a proceeding.

You also ask whether the state might be subject to a possible liability suit for the failure of the Public Service Commission to act in the required time period, thus cutting off the complainants' rights to due process, and what the possible measure of damages might be in such an action. Arguably, the state could be subject to such liability claims, but we deem the more likely scenario to be a declaration that these particular provisions are simply unconstitutional and of no force and effect. In any event it would be impossible for us to contemplate what might be the magnitude of any potential liability, including attorneys' fees, in such a situation.

Your second concern also deals with subsection 3 of section 3 of the bill, as amended, and in particular the provision that provides that "the telecommunications company shall have the burden of proof that such rates and charges are not substantially in excess of the actual economic cost of providing such services." Specifically, your question is whether the failure to define the terms, "substantially," and "actual economic cost," could result in a successful challenge to this law for vagueness.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has stated that:

{T}he due process clause of the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States requires that a statute's language must be sufficiently specific that persons of ordinary intelligence must not have to guess at its meaning. The statute must provide adequate notice of what conduct it requires or proscribes, as well as guidelines by which a violation of the statute may be fairly and nonarbitrarily determined.

State v. Mayhew Products Corp., 211 Neb. 300 at 304, 318 N.W.2d 280 (1982). "It is a basic principle of due process that an enactment is void for vagueness if its prohibitions are not clearly defined. Vague laws offend several important values." Id. at 305. Likewise, in Linn v. Linn, 205 Neb. 218 at 224, 286 N.W.2d 765 (1980), the court noted that "The statute must contain ascertainable standards by which it may be applied. This does not demand total absence of vagueness in a statute, but merely requires that a statute provide adequate notice of what conduct it requires or prescribes. . . ."

The word "substantially" is obviously not susceptible to any precise definition. We have likewise inquired as to the meaning of the term "actual economic cost" among members of the accounting, financial and regulatory professions, and find that not only does it not have any generally accepted definition, but most certainly is not a term of art or a phrase that is commonly understood or even used within the industry. Certainly, the word "cost" is susceptible to many different interpretations and applications from an accounting standpoint alone. In addition, the term "actual cost" has been held not to be a technical term having at all times the same meaning, but a general or descriptive term which may have varying meanings according to circumstances in which it is used. Boston Molasses Company v. Molasses Distributors Corporation, 274 Mass. 589, 175 N.E. 150 at 152 (1931). Likewise, "actual cost" has no common law significance, and is without any well understood trade or technical meaning. State v. Northeast Poultry and Egg Company, 203 Minn. 438, 281 N.W. 753 at 755 (1938). The simple addition of the modifier "economic" to this term would not appear to establish any understandable meaning or definition to this phrase. Consequently, we are unable to ascertain any meaningful standard which could be applied by either the complainants, the telephone company, or the Public Service Commission under the language "substantially in excess of the actual economic cost." As it now reads, it would simply allow one to employ whatever accounting rationale or financial theory one could concoct to justify the increased rates.

Although you have not addressed the particular question, we would also point out that other terms in this subsection, may also be subject to challenges for vagueness and lack of definition, including the terms "affected subscribers," "proper complaint," and "proper notice." In addition, we would further note that although you have also not addressed this specific issue, the failure to provide refunds to successful complainants where excessive charges by the telephone company have been found by the commission under subsection 4 of section 3 of the bill, may well constitute a taking of property without due process of law. In this regard it is fundamental and long understood that the private property of a citizen cannot, by the exercise of legislative power in any form, be taken from him and given to another, or to a corporation. Such an act would be judicial, thus depriving the citizen of his property without the due process of law. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54 (1877). Yet that is precisely the effect of this provision by allowing the phone company to retain the excessive charges billed to the customer. A similar argument could also be fashioned by the failure of the bill to grant interest on refunds of excessive charges under these provisions.

While the bill purports to divest the Public Service Commission of its rate regulation powers, it is not clear whether it also is intended to divest it of the duty imposed by the court "to see that the utility is not unjustly enriched by actions inimicable to public interest", Myers v. Blair Telephone Co., 194 Neb. 55 at 61, 230 N.W.2d (1975), assuming for the moment that is even constitutionally possible. See also Marquis v. Polk County Telephone Co., 100 Neb 140, 158 N.W. 927 (1916), and United Gas Improvement Co. v. Callery Properties, 382 U.S. 223 (1965). The failure to authorize the Public Service Commission to issue refunds and interest would certainly not be consistent with this constitutionally implied responsibility.

Your third concern is whether the action of the Legislature as set forth in LB 835 as amended, constitutes a violation of Article IV, Section 20 of the Nebraska Constitution. This is perhaps the most difficult issue to address. Article IV, Section 20 first establishes the existence of the Public Service Commission, and then provides that "The powers and duties of such commission shall include the regulation of rates, service and general control of common carriers as the Legislature may provide by law. But, in the absence of specific legislation, the commission shall exercise the powers and perform the duties enumerated in this provision." It is, of course, axiomatic that telephone companies are common carriers of communication services for hire and are subject to regulation by the commission. Block v. Lincoln Tel. and Tel., 170 Neb. 531, 103 N.W.2d 312 (1960).

In effect then, the Constitution grants certain powers to the commission, specifically as in this case the regulation of rates for common carriers, but also provides that the Legislature may limit those powers. The question that must be addressed here is the extent of the ability of the Legislature to limit the commission's constitutional powers. This was the issue that was thoroughly analyzed by the Nebraska Supreme Court in the case of State ex rel. State Railway Commission v. Ramsey, 151 Neb. 333, 37 N.W.2d 502 (1949), and it is clearly the pivotal decision in this regard. In that case the court examined the history of this constitutional provision and provided some rather specific guidelines and insights as to its meaning. The issue in that case was legislation which removed the commission's jurisdiction over common carriers by air and transferred it to another state agency.

At the outset we must apologize for the rather lengthy quotations from this case but they are essential to an understanding of the court's analysis and interpretation of the meaning of Article IV Section 20. The court first noted that:

The commission is a regulatory body of constitutional origin not amenable to legislative interruption or limitation of its status or powers except by specific legislation, and, since the amendment to the Constitution creating it is an independent one, it is not construed as other sections of the article to which it has been assigned by the compiler.

Id. at 337. In its analysis the court relied on the meaning of the amendment at the time of its adoption and considered the historical facts and background surrounding its adoption. Id. at 340-41. In so doing, the court noted as follows:

The desire and necessity for a strong, regulatory, constitutional body is indicated by the practically unanimous vote of the Legislature in submitting the proposal, the endorsement thereof by the platforms of the three principal political parties, the thorough and favorable discussion of its merits throughout the state, and its adoption by a very large majority of the voters participating in the election. (Omission of citation) The pertinent legislative history confirms these views. The bill (Senate File 196) originally provided: "There shall be a State Railway Commission" and its "powers and duties * * * shall include such regulation of rates, service and general control of common carriers as the legislature shall provide * * *." (Emphasis supplied) The language was changed before final approval by substituting "the" for "such" before the word "regulation"; "may" for "shall" preceding the word "provide"; and by adding the sentence "but in the absence of specific legislation, the commission shall exercise the powers and perform the duties enumerated in this section." The substitutions and additions made clearly eliminate any conclusion that it was intended that the powers of the commission should include only such regulations and control as the Legislature shall provide or permit by law. The language finally adopted positively provides that the powers of the commission shall include the regulation of all the enumerated matters with the right of the Legislature to control the manner in which the commission shall perform its independent constitutional duties, or to enter the field itself to the extent of "specific legislation." The conclusion is logical, if not inescapable, that the Legislature would not have proposed, and the people would not knowingly have approved, an addition to the Constitution creating a commission with power only to regulate and control common carriers to the extent and for the time provided or permitted by the Legislature, in view of the history attesting that the attempts at regulation by it had been disappointing and ineffective, and that the people had rejected three proposals of the Legislature to amend the fundamental law to provide for executive officers to regulate and control common carriers only as prescribed by it. The legislative record of the bill shows the type of activity which was comprehended by the word "specific."

Id. at 343. (Emphasis added.)

The amendment provides that the commission shall have constitutional authority to regulate common carriers "as the Legislature may provide by law," and "in the absence of specific legislation" the commission may exercise all such duties and powers. The right to regulate "as" the Legislature may provide means the right to regulate in the manner in which the Legislature provides. The word "specific" in the phrase "in the absence of specific legislation" is synonymous with the word "particular." The term implies a definite restriction on the kind and extent of legislation over common carriers which is permissible by the Legislature. . . . Although the term is a relative one, it is limited to a particular, definite or precise thing, and hence is the very opposite of "general." It was not intended by the use of these words to authorize unlimited, broad, general legislation in reference to the control and regulation of common carriers.

Id. at 344. (Emphasis added).

The court then noted that "There have been many instances of specific legislation on subjects within the jurisdiction of the commission directing the manner in which it may exercise its power."

Id. at 346. In any event the court determined here that the particular legislation at issue "undertakes to legislate completely and generally with reference to that entire class of carriers." Id. at 344.

The court went on to quote from the case of Rivett Lumber & Coal Company v. Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, 102 Neb. 492, 167 N.W. 570 (1918), as follows:

While the Constitution authorizes the legislature to provide by law how these powers and duties of the commission shall be exercised, it was clearly not intended that the legislature should confer the general power to regulate rates, service or control generally of common carriers upon some other body or jurisdiction. If the legislature under the Constitution could confer jurisdiction upon the courts either to regulate rates or service or to control generally common carriers, it follows that it could confer jurisdiction to do all of the things enumerated in the railway commission statute, and the constitutional provision establishing a railway commission would then become nugatory. . . .

Id. at 346. Consequently, even though recognizing the presumption of constitutionality generally given to legislative acts, the court concluded in the Ramsey case that "The Legislature has no power to divest the State Railway Commission of its constitutional jurisdiction to regulate and control common carriers by air by transferring it to another body or jurisdiction." Id. at 347.

From this decision we can fairly conclude that while the Legislature may direct the manner in which the commission may conduct its regulation of common carriers, it cannot divest that jurisdiction which is specifically granted by the Constitution. This would be true whether the Legislature attempted to transfer that jurisdiction to another body as in the Ramsey case, or simply attempted to eliminate that jurisdiction altogether. Either result essentially renders the constitutional provision meaningless. In addition, the court noted that the Legislature may only direct the manner in which the commission conducts its regulation as provided by the Constitution through specific legislation, and not through "unlimited, broad, general legislation." Certainly the Legislature may provide parameters, guidelines, and specific limitations as to the exercise of the commission's regulation but may not impose limitations of a wholesale, sweeping, and general nature.

These then are the questions that must be addressed in regard to LB 835, as amended. Does this legislation, in effect, divest the commission of its constitutionally granted jurisdiction to regulate the rates, in this case of telephone common carriers, and does it likewise do so by way of legislation which completely and generally governs this area of regulation, as opposed to specific legislation which simply directs the manner in which that regulatory control is to be exercised? On its face, the bill does in fact divest jurisdiction of rate regulation from the commission as noted in section 3 subsection 1 wherein it provides that "Telecommunications companies shall not, however, be subject to any rate regulation by the commission and shall not be subject to provisions as to rates and charges prescribed in Chapter 75, articles 1 and 6." (Emphasis supplied).

A further reading of the bill, however, discloses three instances or situations in which the commission appears to retain a modicum of authority or responsibility in regard to telephone rates. These specific situations, however, are triggered only upon the occurrence of an event initiated by another party, and may not be commenced by the commission on its own authority. The first of these is found in subsection 3(3) wherein the commission may hear a complaint generated by ratepayers as to increases only in local exchange rates, where the complainants have obtained the necessary signatures by a petition process and filed a proper complaint with the commission. The second provision is found in subsection 3(4) where a telecommunications company may at its own volition file an application with the commission requested it to prescribe fair and reasonable rates. The third such provision is found in subsection 3(7), wherein the commission may hold a hearing on its own motion, but only in the event that a telephone company has initiated a rate increase of more than 10 percent within any consecutive 12 month period. As indicated, the occurrence of these events are all beyond the control of the commission, and should they never occur, the commission simply has no authority under this bill in regard to the rates of telephone common carriers.

It should also be noted that subsections 3(3) and 3(7) apply only to local exchange rates, or the flat monthly charge for a telephone access line, as defined in the bill. All of the other many services and charges by the phone company, including intrastate interexchange and inter-LATA services, or toll calls, are completely removed from commission jurisdiction. Even subsection 3(4) which might arguably encompass more than just local exchange rates does not include any rates for toll calls. In addition, because of the specific language in the bill indicating that the commission shall have no authority to regulate any rates, one must question the extent of the commission's powers in this regard under these three provisions. It would certainly appear under subsections 3(3) and 3(7) that the commission's function is solely to act as a hearing and fact finding body, and to implement those rates and charges which the company demonstrates are "not substantially in excess of the actual economic cost of providing such services," assuming such a standard can in the first place be determined. In short, even under these three provisions it would appear that the commission's authority to actually regulate rates has been effectively eliminated.

A strong argument can thus be made that, in effect, and as set forth in the bill itself, this legislation does in fact divest the Public Service Commission of its constitutionally granted authority to regulate the rates of telecommunications common carriers. This is particularly true when viewed from an historical perspective and the broad authority traditionally exercised by the commission in this area since its inception. Based on the court's analysis in the Ramsey case it appears that this type of regulation was the intention of the people when enacting this provision. Likewise, the broad sweeping provisions of this legislation concerning the regulation, or in actuality the absence of any regulation, of telephone rates does not appear to be the type of "specific" legislation which merely directs the manner in which the commission is to conduct its regulatory powers, as contemplated in the Ramsey case. To paraphrase that case, LB 835, as amended, "undertakes to legislate completely and generally with reference" to the entire area of rate regulation of telecommunications common carriers and goes beyond the mere provision of direction to the commission as to how it should exercise that authority. Taken in its entirety and under the principles set forth in the Ramsey case, we must therefore conclude, that LB 835, as amended, is an impermissible attempt by the Legislature to interfere with the constitutional authority granted to the commission by virtue of Article IV, Section 20 of the Nebraska Constitution.

ROBERT M. SPIRE

11 the district court or Supreme Court. The Supreme Court
12 shall by rule determine whether child support referees
13 are necessary in counties with a population of more than 14 sixty thousand inhabitants to meet requirements relating 15 to case progression standards established by Public Law
16 98-378. If the Supreme Court determines that a child
17 support referee is necessary in such a county, the 18 district court in such county shall appoint no more than 19 one attorney in good standing to serve as a referee
20 subject to confirmation by the Supreme Court. The child
21 support referee may be removed by either the district
22 court or Supreme Court. In the remaining counties of 23 the state no child support referees shall be appointed 24 unless (1) a showing of the inability of the existing
1 judicial resources to accommodate the case progression
2 standards established by Public Law 98-378 is made and 3 (2) specific statutory authorization is granted by the 4 Legislature.

5 In any county, the Supreme Court may appoint
6 without approval of the Legislature, county judges to 7 act as child support referees. The Supreme Court may by 8 rule prioritize classes of cases in order to assure that 9 matters relating to child support and spousal support,
10 paternity, and visitation shall meet the case
11 progression standards established by Public Law 98-378.

12 Sec. 2. That section 42-364, Revised Statutes
13 Supplement, 1985, as amended by section 16, Legislative 14 Bill 7, Eighty-ninth Legislature, Second Special
15 Session, 1985, be amended to read as follows:

16 42-364. ~~When dissolution of a marriage or~~ 17 ~~legal separation is decreed, the court may include such~~ 18 ~~orders in relation to any minor children and their~~ 19 ~~maintenance as shall be justified, including placing the~~ 20 ~~minor children in the custody of the court or third~~
21 ~~parties or terminating parental rights pursuant to~~ 22 ~~subdivision (5) of this section if the welfare of the~~ 23 ~~children so requires. Custody and visitation of minor~~
24 ~~children shall be determined on the basis of their best~~
1 ~~interests. Subsequent changes may be made by the court~~
2 ~~after hearing on such notice as prescribed by the court.~~

3 (1) ~~In determining with which of the parents~~
4 ~~the children or any of them shall remain, the court~~
5 ~~shall consider the best interests of the children, which~~ 6 ~~shall include, but not be limited to:~~

7 (a) ~~The relationship of the children to each~~
8 ~~parent prior to the commencement of the action or any~~ 9 ~~subsequent hearing;~~

10 (b) ~~The desires and wishes of the children if~~ 11 ~~of an age of comprehension regardless of their~~ 12 ~~chronological age, when such desires and wishes are~~ 13 ~~based on sound reasoning; and~~

14 (c) ~~The general health, welfare, and social~~ 15 ~~behavior of the children.~~

16 (2) ~~In determining with which of the parents~~
17 ~~the children or any of them shall remain, the court~~
18 ~~shall not give preference to either parent based on the~~ 19 ~~sex of the parent, and no presumption shall exist that~~ 20 ~~either parent is more fit to have custody of the~~ 21 ~~children than the other.~~

22 (3) ~~The court may place the custody of a child~~
23 ~~with both parents on a shared or joint custody basis~~
24 ~~when both parents agree to such an arrangement. In that~~
1 ~~event, the parents shall have equal rights to make~~
2 ~~decisions in the best interests of the child in their~~
3 ~~custody. The court shall not place a child in joint~~ 4 ~~custody without conducting a hearing in open court and~~
5 ~~specifically finding that joint custody is in the best~~
6 ~~interest of the child regardless of any parental~~
7 ~~agreement or consent.~~

8 (4) ~~In determining the amount of child support~~
9 ~~to be paid by a parent, the court shall consider the~~ 10 ~~earning capacity of each parent and the guidelines~~
11 ~~provided by the Supreme Court Nebraska District Judges~~

12 ~~Association pursuant to section 18 of this act for the~~ 13 ~~establishment of child support obligations. Upon~~ 14 ~~application, hearing, and presentation of evidence of an~~
15 ~~abusive disregard of the use of child support money paid~~
16 ~~by one party to the other, the court may require the~~ 17 ~~party receiving such payment to file a verified report~~
18 ~~with the court as often as the court shall require~~
19 ~~stating the manner in which such money is used. Child~~
20 ~~support paid to the party having custody of the child~~
21 ~~shall be the property of such party. The clerk of the~~ 22 ~~district court shall maintain a record, separate from~~ 23 ~~all other judgment dockets, of all decrees and orders in~~
24 ~~which the payment of child support or spousal support~~
1 ~~has been ordered, whether ordered by a district court,~~
2 ~~separate juvenile court, or county court sitting as a~~
3 ~~juvenile court.~~

4 (5) ~~Whenever termination of parental rights is~~
5 ~~placed in issue by the pleadings or evidence, the court~~
6 ~~shall transfer jurisdiction to a juvenile court~~
7 ~~established pursuant to the Nebraska Juvenile Code~~
8 ~~unless a showing is made that the district court is a~~
9 ~~more appropriate forum. In making such determination,~~
10 ~~the court may consider such factors as cost to the~~ 11 ~~parties, undue delay, congestion of dockets, and~~ 12 ~~relative resources available for investigative and~~ 13 ~~supervisory assistance. A determination that the~~ 14 ~~district court is a more appropriate forum shall not be~~ 15 ~~a final order for the purpose of enabling an appeal. If~~
16 ~~no such transfer is made, the court shall forthwith~~
17 ~~appoint an attorney as guardian ad litem to protect the~~ 18 ~~interests of any minor children. The court may~~
19 ~~terminate the parental rights of one or both parents~~
20 ~~after notice and hearing when the court finds such~~ 21 ~~action to be in the best interests of the children and~~ 22 ~~it appears by the evidence that one or more of the~~ 23 ~~following conditions exist:~~

24 (a) ~~Such children have been abandoned by one~~
1 ~~or both parents;~~

2 (b) ~~One or both parents have substantially and~~
3 ~~continuously or repeatedly neglected the children and~~
4 ~~have refused to give such children necessary parental~~
5 ~~care and protection;~~

6 (c) ~~One or both parents are unfit by reason of~~ 7 ~~debauchery, habitual use of intoxicating liquor or~~

8 ~~narcotic drugs, or repeated lewd and lascivious~~
9 ~~behavior, which conduct is found by the court to be~~ 10 ~~seriously detrimental to the health, morals, or~~ 11 ~~well-being of the children; or~~

12 ~~(d) One or both parents are unable to~~ 13 ~~discharge parental responsibilities because of mental~~
14 ~~illness or mental deficiency, and there are reasonable~~
15 ~~grounds to believe that such condition will continue for~~ 16 ~~a prolonged indeterminate period.~~

17 ~~Whenever termination of parental rights is~~
18 ~~placed in issue, the court shall forthwith inform a~~
19 ~~parent who does not have legal counsel of that parent's~~ 20 ~~right to retain counsel and shall further inform such~~ 21 ~~parent of the parent's right to retain legal counsel at~~ 22 ~~county expense if such parent is unable to afford legal~~ 23 ~~counsel. If such parent is unable to afford legal~~
24 ~~counsel and requests the court to appoint legal counsel,~~
1 ~~the court shall immediately appoint an attorney to~~
2 ~~represent the parent in the termination proceedings.~~
3 ~~The court shall order the county to pay the attorney's~~
4 ~~fee and all reasonable expenses incurred by the attorney~~
5 ~~in protecting the rights of the parent. At such~~
6 ~~hearing, the guardian ad litem shall take all action~~
7 ~~necessary to protect the interests of the minor~~
8 ~~children. The court shall fix the fee and expenses of~~ 9 ~~the guardian ad litem and tax the same as costs, but may~~
10 ~~order the county to pay on finding the responsible party~~
11 ~~indigent and unable to pay.~~

12 ~~Sec. 3. That section 18, Legislative Bill 7,~~
13 ~~Eighty-ninth Legislature, Second Special Session, 1985,~~
14 ~~be amended to read as follows:~~

15 ~~Sec. 18. The Supreme Court Nebraska District~~
16 ~~Judges Association shall provide by court rule, as a~~
17 ~~rebuttable presumption, guidelines for the establishment~~
18 ~~of all child support obligations. Child support shall~~ 19 ~~be established in accordance with such guidelines unless~~
20 ~~the court finds that one or both parties have produced~~
21 ~~sufficient evidence to rebut the presumption that the~~ 22 ~~application of the guidelines will result in a fair and~~ 23 ~~equitable child support order.~~

24 ~~Sec. 4. That original section 42-364, Revised~~
1 ~~Statutes Supplement, 1985, as amended by section 16,~~
2 ~~Legislative Bill 7, Eighty-ninth Legislature, Second~~
3 ~~Special Session, 1985, and sections 1 and 18,~~
4 ~~Legislative Bill 7, Eighty-ninth Legislature, Second~~

5 ~~Special Session, 1985, are repealed."~~

Mr. Patrick J. O'Donnell
Clerk of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

I hereby return LB 1251 and LB 1252, the mainline appropriation bills, with my signature, but with certain line item reductions.

These appropriations must be reduced by no less than $32.6 million. The vetoes I present to you are the minimum; they can and should be sustained by this Legislature. Using the revised revenue projection of the Revenue Forecasting Committee, the budget I'm sending back to the Legislature is balanced and contains a 3.4% reserve.
